Sub Crew Rescued Giraud From Sea

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NORTH AFRICA, Dec. 20.—(P)—General Henri Giraud, the French military leader, narrowly escaped death in a daring dash from France in a submarine and plane and joined Lieutenant General Eisenhower only a few hours before the Allied landings in North Africa November 8, it was disclosed today.

The feat of the Frenchman who slipped from a German prison a few months ago and joined the Allies in North Africa, was made known today in Eisenhower's commendation of Captain Jerauld Wright, Washington, D. C., of the United States Navy, who took charge of the operation. Wright used a British submarine in the exploit.

The submarine entered a French harbor submerged, then surfaced 1,000 yards off shore. General Giraud, who had escaped to Vichy-controlled France from the German Koenigstein prison last April, then appeared on a rough sea in a row boat.

In transferring from the row boat to the submarine the elderly general fell into the sea, but was saved when the submarine crewmen seized him by the coat collar and dragged him aboard. Later the general was transferred to a plane which landed on the sea at a rendezvous point.

The submarine participating in this daring venture was commanded by Lieutenant N. L. A. Jewell of the British Royal Navy, who was under Captain Wright's orders.

The submarine was the same one which landed Lieutenant General Mark W. Clark, deputy U. S. Continued on Page 10, Column 3.

Russians Cut Vital Rail Line, Capture Over 300 Villages

By EDDY GILMORE.
MOSCOW, Monday, Dec. 21.—(AP)—The Red army sweeping across the frozen Don plains at a 16-mile daily clip was nearing the key railway junction of Millerovo on the Moscow-Rostov line today after a powerful offensive that has inflicted 41,500 casualties on the Nazis and threatens the entire German army anchored in southern Russia.

A special communique, the second in two days, announced the capture of Mankovo-Kalivenskaya, only 30 miles north of Millerovo, and numerous other towns. Altogether some 300 villages have been retaken in this exhibition of Soviet strength which is continuing on Premier Joseph Stalin's 63d birthday anniversary.

Of the Nazi casualties 28,000 were reported killed and 13,500 captured. Driving southwest the Russians said "our troops pursuing the routed and hurriedly retreating German Fascist troops advanced 25 to 30 kilometers (15 1/2 to 18 1/2 miles). Altogether since the beginning of the offensive our troops have advanced 75 to 120 kilometers (46 1/2 to 74 1/2 miles.)"

Huge War Booty.
The offensive began December 16 and the communique said the Russians had captured vast quantities of war equipment, including 89 tanks "as well as a trainload of tanks," 1,320 guns of various calibers, 800 mortars, 1,969 machineguns, more than 10,000,000 rifle cartridges, more than 1,000,000 mines and shells, 6,320 trucks, 3,600 horses, 77 supply stores and 70 radio stations.

During yesterday's operations alone the Germans lost 8,000 killed and 3,500 prisoners, the communique said.

The Russians said their offensives on both sides of Stalingrad and on the central front also were continuing as part of their general winter strategy which inflicted reverses on the Nazis last winter before Moscow.

For sometime now the Russians have been battling the Germans at Kotelnikovsky, railway junction 90 miles southwest of Stalingrad, as part of their plan to encircle the Nazi siege armies standing before Stalingrad. The Nazis also are being hit hard northwest of Stalingrad on the Don river bend below the scene of the present big drive on the middle course of the Don.

Rail Line Cut.
Field dispatches said the Russians already had cut the Moscow-Rostov railway at a point south of Voronezh, 150 miles short of the steel center of Kharkov. (A DNB broadcast from Berlin said German forces on the middle Don have "shortened their front." DNB also admitted the Russians had broken into Velikie Luki proper, the strategic town 280 miles northwest of Moscow and only 90 miles from the Latvian border.)

The entire 236-mile section of the Moscow-Rostov railway between Voronezh and Millerovo was gravely threatened as were the key cities of Millerovo, Rostov and Chertkova—all on the right bank of the middle course of the Don as it flows westward toward the Volga.

Third Offensive.
This third winter offensive of the Russians is northwest of the Stalingrad salient where 22 German divisions are fighting in a narrow corridor between the Don and Volga. These two drives already have liberated more than 65,000 square miles of the lush areas where the Don Cossacks raised

Trammell Scott Killed on South Georgia Hunt

By RALPH MCGILL.

Major Trammell Scott, distinguished soldier of the first World War and for many years one of Atlanta's best-known citizens and sportsmen, died Sunday morning in south Georgia.

Major Scott died of a shotgun wound received, apparently accidentally, while on an early-morning hunt for a wild turkey he had wounded on a hunt Saturday.

He was spending the weekend on Ichauway plantation near Newnan. On a turkey-drive hunt Saturday he wounded a large turkey. An enthusiastic hunter, Major Scott told his friends before retiring that he planned to get up early and find the turkey, darkness having prevented his doing so the evening before.

Because of this, there was no concern over his non-appearance, until late in the morning. At about 10 o'clock the plantation manager and assistants went to look for him, taking along a horse for him to ride back.

They believed he had wandered off the known paths in the wild turkey hunting section and had become lost. They came upon his body about noon.

Sheriff Claude Screws, Coroner R. L. Edwards, and Dr. E. W. Twitty, of Baker county, were called to the scene. They impaled a coroner's jury, which rendered a decision that the wound was self-inflicted, without ruling out the possibility of an accident. "Our jury," said the coroner in a telephone conversation, "does not go into the probability of accident or suicide, but only determines whether there was any

U. S. Bombers Penetrate 80 Miles Beyond Paris

More Than 40 Enemy Fighters Bagged in Duel

LONDON, Dec. 20.—(P)—A great force of U. S. Flying Fortress and Liberator bombers made their deepest penetration of the war into German-occupied France today and made one of their heaviest daylight attacks, but they also suffered their heaviest loss as swarms of Nazi fighters shot down six of them.

The big four-motored planes soaked 180 miles beyond the coastal frontier to blast an enemy airfield at Romilly-Sur-Seine, which lies 80 miles beyond Paris. The weather was good and excellent results were seen.

Reports of returning pilots indicated that more than 40 Focke-Wulf 190s and Messerschmitt 109s were shot down. One of the biggest bags yet scored by the huge bombers.

The pilots said the Germans rushed to the battle shortly after the bombers reached the French coast and bounded the Americans all the way to the target and back to the channel.

Dropping the bombs from an altitude of 20,000 feet, the Americans said they saw huge columns of smoke and debris flying in all directions from hangars and repair shops on the airfield, just outside Romilly-Sur-Seine.

A Merry Christmas? Not Unless You Help

It will be a happy Christmas for most Atlantans. It will be a day merry and bright in spite of this being wartime, in spite of the fact that many homes will find members missing—their

For the majority of Atlantans, those few days will be filled with frantic haste, to finish shopping, to get off those Christmas cards, to buy that last-minute toy the youngster wants, to make the myriad plans that go into the organizing of a happy holiday.

But for some folks—right here in Atlanta—Christmas Day looms as just another day. For them the day will be anything but merry and bright. For them it will be dark, somber and utterly miserable.

For these are the folks of the Ten Opportunity Fund, sponsored by The Constitution. They are worthy folks. They are decent and self-respecting. They like to be on their own, to ask help of no one.

Yet they are the victims of circumstances. For instance—There is the brave mother struggling to raise three children and to pay the hospital costs of a stricken father.

There are girls, alone in the world at the age of 19, with no place to turn, struggling to support themselves in spite of physical handicaps.

There are the people from homes where death has struck suddenly and left a mother, bewildered, trying to start out to earn a living for five young boys and girls.

Not one of these folks want permanent charity. Not one of these families—

200 War Show Stars Available For Yule Meals

Between 200 and 300 soldiers who were star actors in the Army War show will be among the 1,000 service men available as guests for Christmas dinner in the homes of Atlantans, it was announced yesterday.

The Army War show, with its 2,300 men, are camping in Piedmont park until after the Christmas holidays, and a number of the men are anxious to eat some "home-cooked food" right now.

There will also be approximately 200 service men from the Conley depot available, several from the Naval Reserve Aviation Base, and more than 100 from Lawson General hospital, plus many more who will be passing through Atlanta on Christmas day.

The Constitution, co-operating with the Service Men's Center, is sponsoring the Christmas dinner plan for Atlantans to invite service men into their homes for Christmas dinner, and Mrs. Legare Davis is in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Davis reported that already more than 150 calls had been received from Atlantans requesting boys be sent to their homes for Christmas dinner.

If there's a vacant place at your table this Christmas—where your soldier used to sit—why, be sure to invite one of the boys out. The service men will enjoy it a whole lot, and you'll find you will, too.

Phone Mrs. Davis at Jackson 5721, or Jackson 8311, or Walnut 4208, at the Service Men's center, 16 Courtland street, and tell her you want one or more of the boys to have dinner with you Friday.

Public Lends U. S. $10,000,000,000 To Top All Records

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—(AP)—Americans have lent their government more than $10,000,000,000 this month in the greatest outpouring of money for loans of any similar period of United States history.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau announced this today "as the sort of news that Axis leaders dread to hear."

Another borrowed billion is expected by the end of December. This, with taxes and other collections of about $2,500,000,000, promises to bring the Treasury's December receipts to about $13,500,000,000, a sizable chunk of the national income of $17,000,000,000 estimated for this year by the Commerce Department.

Surpasses Goal.

The Treasury had set a goal of $9,000,000,000 in its December victory fund drive. With this figure already surpassed by $1,229,000,000, Morgenthau raised the sights to $11,000,000,000.

"I am deeply gratified by the superb public response to the financial needs of our country in this war," Morgenthau said in a statement. "It will reassure all soldiers who are fighting the good fight.

"Much more than $10,000,000,000 will be needed, and I urge every American to dig deep into his pockets and buy more of the securities that will remain available until December 23, and the tax notes and savings bonds that will continue to be on sale."

His Interest Rate.

The extent of December borrowings was shown by comparison with the largest loan previously floated—the $6,964,581,000 fourth liberty loan, raised in three weeks of 1918.

Simultaneously with the Treasury announcement, the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration issued a statement by Commissioner John H. Fahey criticizing the payment of high interest rates by some savings institutions.

"The policy which has unhappily been followed in the case of a certain number of institutions of paying unduly high interest rates to attract savings has always been unsound and dangerous," Fahey said. "It is particularly indefensible now and should not be tolerated."

other factor for the sheriff to consider.

The spot where Major Scott's body was found was in territory where he had been hunting the afternoon before. It was some three or four miles from the house on the plantation. His tracks were to be seen and he obviously had been trying to pick up the trail of the wounded gobbler. The going was slippery and wild, and an accident was not at all improbable.

In 82d Division.

Major Scott was in the first officers' training camp at Fort McPherson, being commissioned as a captain of infantry. He was stationed at Camp Gordon and there assigned to the famous 82d division in the 328th Infantry, 164th brigade.

He was in all the campaigns of the 82d division, being promoted to the rank of major and being cited for unusual bravery in action. He was one of those largely responsible for the organization of the American Legion in Georgia. He was chairman of the meeting called May 4, 1919, at which time the Legion was launched in this state.

Legion Affairs.

The formation of the Legion in Georgia was a difficult one, as the late Thomas E. Watson was attacking the officers of the American Legion in a typically ruthless and unfounded manner in an effort to attract the larger vote of the private soldiers who had returned.

Major Scott was chairman of the committee which exposed Watson's charges as false. Major Scott served as commander of Atlanta Post No. 1 in 1931-32 and was commander of Fulton county post 134 in 1937.

His great loves were children, dogs and hunting. He was one of the best-known bird dog field trial men in America and had served as a judge at many important trials. He was a leader, too, in many organizations for the protection and conservation of game.

He long had been one of those heading the fight for a fish and game department in Georgia which would give the state a modern conservation department.

Southern League Head.

For the past four years he had been president of the Southern Baseball Association. At that association's meeting at Chicago early this month, his contract was not renewed after a small group of directors had opposed it. Scott insisted always on adherence to the spirit of baseball's best traditions.

Failure of the directors to rehire Scott added a dramatic touch to the minor leagues' meeting, mainly because of the way it happened. Scott had left his Atlanta home on a train due in Chicago at 1:30 p. m., with intentions of presiding over the Southern Association meeting at 4 p. m.

But the train was late, and when the club owners convened, Scott had not arrived and had not been heard from.

Some of the members then contacted Bill Evans, who had come to the meeting unattached, although with a long baseball background, and hired him.

When Scott finally arrived, the dinner meeting of presidents of all the minor leagues was already underway. He took his seat with the league presidents, and a tense moment followed when he was informed that Evans had been named to his post.

He modeled his presidency along the lines laid down by Judge Kenneth Mountain Landis, baseball's head commissioner, and he stepped on the toes of those who sought to profiteer on all-star games and by raising prices for children.

He also ended the unwholesome practice of some owners being able to dictate the hiring and firing of umpires.

'Soft Touch.'

He was known as a "soft touch" to anyone with a hard-luck story, and thousands knew his generosity across the many years he had been in Atlanta.

He was a member of the Rotary Club and, as a student at the University of Georgia, was a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

Major Scott was born at Dalton, Ga., October 4, 1886. He was the son of Samuel B. and Mary Trammell Scott. He was educated in the common schools of Atlanta, at Peacock school, at Georgia Military Academy, and at the University of Georgia.

He was married November 3, 1923, to Glenn Emerson. She and one daughter, Mary Trammell Scott, and a stepdaughter, Betty Watson Healy, survive.

Funeral plans will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

Lifting of Gas Ban To Ease Pressure On Buses and Trolleys

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—(AP)—Officials of public transportation systems in the east breathed easier today with the word that private motorists can get gasoline again tomorrow.

Prior to OPA's Saturday night announcement that motor fuel sales could resume tomorrow, bus and trolley authorities in many communities had made elaborate plans to handle the Monday crush of workers and Christmas shoppers, augmented by crowds that ordinarily would drive at least part way to work. In Washington wholesale changes of bus routes were authorized and the school board decided to open schools an hour later than usual to relieve the expected crush.

OPA removed after midnight to-night its 17-state ban on gasoline sales. Holders of B and C ration books, however, must reduce their gasoline consumption 25 per cent—the B and C coupons now have a value of only three gallons, compared with four previously. The A coupons, previously reduced from four to three gallons, continue on the three-gallon basis. (In West Virginia, the A-card reduction from four to three gallons takes place tomorrow.)

James F. Byrnes, director of economic stabilization, expects to go into the gasoline situation, as well as fuel oil rationing, tomorrow. He will meet with Leon Henderson, OPA administrator; Secretary Ickes, the petroleum administrator, and Joseph B. Eastman, director of the Office of Defense Transportation. Byrnes asked all three to report any later, needed in present policies, and suggest improvements.

80 High School Boys Inducted As CAP Cadets

Youths To Be Given Training Preliminary To Senior Instruction.

Eighty youths from Atlanta and Fulton county high schools were inducted as Civil Air Patrol cadets at a ceremony held yesterday at the Shrine Mosque.

The cadet corps, a duplicate of the senior patrol, was authorized on a national basis several weeks ago as a result of numerous losses in the ranks of the senior patrol, Captain L. S. Borsage said.

The cadets were selected by a board of senior patrol members on a basis of individual aptitude for aviation as well as general school training and ROTC training.

Regular meetings of the cadet corps will be held each Sunday afternoon at the Shrine Mosque for the present. Later, meetings will be held at the airport.

The corps, now two-thirds of its proposed strength, will be given a year's free training in navigation, meteorology and other preflight instruction. No flight training will be given until the cadets finish the preliminary course and join the senior patrol.

Only high school students who are too young to be eligible for the senior patrol will be inducted into the cadet corps, Captain Borsage said.

Virtually all schools in the Atlanta area were represented in the first class.

Netherlands-Axis Army Promised by Mussert

LONDON, Dec. 20.—(AP)—Aneta, Netherlands news agency, reported today that Anton A. Mussert, Hitler-appointed "leader of the Netherlands people," had promised he would raise an armed force to fight the Russians and to help out the United States from Africa.

The news agency said that Mussert, by that promise, made a new bid for permission to form a puppet government in the Netherlands.

The chief of the Dutch Nazi party, in an address to a conference of the Technical Guild in Utrecht, broadcast by the German-controlled Netherlands radio, declared that "if once again the Netherlands government resumes its duties this Netherlands government will, as a good national Socialist government, do everything in its power to carry out its duties."

How to Dodge Bomb in One Easy Lesson

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—(AP)—How to tell when to dodge a bomb, as explained on the Army Hour radio program today by Captain Reade Tilley of the Army Air Corps, recently back from Malta:

"You hold up a pencil or a straight stick. If you sight along the pencil at the falling bomb, and hold the sight, the path of the bomb can be checked."

"If you see the bomb again, drifting off to either side of the pencil or over the top, then you can relax. That bomb will miss you to the side or behind."

"But if you don't see the bomb after a little bit, if the pencil masks it off, the bomb is falling in line with you. It may hit in front of you. And it may smack the very place where you are standing. Anyway, it's a good idea to go away then. Sort of quick."

I Would Not Be A Tree, Affirms Our Poet Laureate

Dear friends, who write about the tree, with all your poems I agree, for trees are things which we admire, although we never would aspire to be one, for we would not care to have a bird nest in our hair.

We would object if some old skunk came up and leaned against our trunk, or if a lean, flea-bitten hound walked up and idly stood around (although I hear that dogs and trees have definite affinities.)

If snow was on my bosom I'd suffer some pneumonia pain and doctors then would fill my hide with shots of sulfanilamide; and I am told these remedies are often worse than the disease.

I wonder, too, what I would gain, to intimately live with rain, for any friend of mine will bet you I am constantly "all wet."

When frigid breezes fill the air the tree is naked, cold and bare, but with the spring's first warm caress, the tree puts on a heavy dress, and that, I think you will agree, is tops in inconsistency.

Ah, if my lips were always pressed against the earth's sweet flowing breast, I think that would be rather tough for I am sure I'll get enough of dirt for all the things I've done to last me 'til my race is run.

And so, I think I'd rather be a fool than some poor lonely tree. —OLLIE REEVES.

Young America

George McNabb, of the Newnan Herald, tells of seeing a small boy riding a bicycle decorated with five small American flags. He hit something and had a crash, landing on his shoulder because he had used both hands to protect the flags. "They didn't get dirty," he announced, before bothering about his bruises. That boy knows more about respect for the flag than most grown-ups will ever learn. I'll bet he's a Boy Scout.

Several weeks ago I rejoined in this column that I'd found in a south Georgia town a virtually unlimited supply of canned gravy—which my Atlanta food store

Gallup Poll Finds:

Fuel Oil Users Keeping Warm

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 20.—One of America's chief contributions to modern living, besides such things as zippers, inside plumbing, automatic dishwashers and electric shoe shiners, is central heating. While many citizens are getting hot under the collar at fuel oil rationing boards nowadays, they are at the same time apparently maintaining plenty of heat in their homes.

A survey by the Institute from coast to coast shows that Americans believe the "ideal" temperature for a room in winter is 70 degrees.

Fires Burning. Moreover, although solemn warnings have been issued on the need for keeping home fires burning low this winter, Americans are still keeping their homes much closer to the 70 degree figure than to the 65 degrees recommended by the United States Board of Health.

In fact, the survey finds that more than two-thirds of the people who heat with oil say they are maintaining room temperature above 65 degrees. Even at that, more than half of these same people consider that their home temperature is below what they would like to have it.

had scratched off the list. I foolishly remarked that perhaps the residents down there didn't buy canned goods because they preferred sorghum syrup.

I am sharply reprimanded by I. S. A., who does a column for the Moultrie Observer. She says nobody she knows ever bothers with sorghum because they raise sugar cane and enjoy the finest cane syrup on earth.

I'm glad to hear that—because while sorghum is to me—something to feed the pigs—genuine cane syrup is a delight with buttercakes or waffles. When I was a kid a cold biscuit with a hole bored in it by my thumb and the cavity filled with cane syrup was my favorite home-from-school snack.

Honest—a Notebook Another beloved tradition has been shattered. Couple of days ago a veteran reporter—and a good one—pulled out of his pocket a notebook in which he had inscribed notes. Legible notes.

In my long journalistic career I had never before known a reporter, newspaperman with a notebook except a cub reporter or a war correspondent in the movies.

Most of us borrow a pencil and search pocket for an unpaid gas bill—there's always some unpaid bill—and use the reverse side for taking notes. Then we lose the notes—and the bill—on the way back to the shop. We never use pencils. We save borrowed pencils and when we accumulate 10 pounds we swap them in at the second-hand pencil shop for two packages of cigars.

Leon Smith, of the Thomaston Times, went to an oculist last week and the eye doctor dilated his eyes so he couldn't see a thing for two days.

Then he got on a bus and a lady who had a newspaper asked him if he wouldn't like to read part of it.

"Sorry, ma'am," he returned. "But I can't read."

And the look of pity, mixed with scorn she gave him is something he'll never forget.

Nothing like being a big shot. President Roosevelt spells "generalissimo" with two I's and his honor resounds around the world. Yet we have 17 people on this floor who can't spell "Philippines" without an extra I or a shortage of n's, which includes this writer, and none of us ever had our name carried by the Associated Press.

"Maybe his marriage (to Barbara Hutton) changed him," suggested the press club today in announcing this year's Golden Apple awards.

The girls agreed Rosalind Russell was the year's most co-operative actress.

Jean Arthur they voted the least co-operative actress, and George Sanders the least co-operative actor. Runners-up to Jean were Ginger Rogers and Marlene Dietrich; to Sanders, Bing Crosby and Franchot Tone.

Bob Hope and Vic Mature were a close second and third to Grant, while Barbara Stanwyck and Gene Tierney were runners-up in the feminine division.

It looks like the government will have a big job on its hands in trying to persuade oil furnace owners to set the thermostat lower. A lot of people have apparently made up their minds that 65 degrees is not warm enough for them.

Homes Heated. Here, according to the survey, are the temperatures now being maintained in American homes equipped with furnaces.

HOMES HEATED BY OIL FURNACES (65 degrees recommended by health agencies)

Under 65 degrees at present 7%—
At 65 at present 25%—

HOMES HEATED BY COAL AND OTHER TYPE OF FURNACES. (68 degrees recommended)

Under 65 degrees at present 17%—

The government is not particularly worried about coal furnaces at present, although transportation facilities for delivering coal may have to be curtailed eventually. The big problem is oil, deliveries of which are already being drastically cut in many areas.

Good Morning

By LOUIE D. NEWTON

ECCLESIASTICAL GAMBLING.

Mayor LaGuardia made very little impression on the country, save in his role of getting federal funds to New York City that, until some weeks ago when he announced to the police department of New York City that something had to be done about gambling.

According to the press, the police smiled, and everybody else in New York City smiled.

But the Little Flower didn't smile. He gave the police a week, and then he called them in again. He said to these pompous gentlemen: "Now you can take your choice—you either get out here and round up these gamblers, or I will get some policemen that will do the job." And, believe it or not, the policemen of New York City started arresting the operators of gambling dives. And that was national news.

But one crowd of operators paid no attention to the police, and less to the mayor. They were the operators of bingo rackets in the churches. Whereupon New York's police commissioner, one Valentine, announced that bingo and similar games would be deemed unlawful except when conducted under the auspices of churches. It was LaGuardia's time to talk again. And did he? Listen to him:

"If a game is unlawful, the ultimate disposal of the funds, or the auspices under which the game is operated, or the place where the game is operated, does not make an unlawful game lawful. Do I make myself clear?"

The Greater New York Federation of Churches (Protestant) promptly commended the mayor's action, while Archbishop Spellman of the New York diocese finally ordered a suspension of ecclesiastical gambling, awaiting the result of his appeal to the courts for a ruling. This was in striking contrast to Roman Catholic Archbishop Stritch's attitude in Milwaukee some years ago, when he ordered all gambling in Catholic churches to cease and cease at once.

Newswomen Find Cary Grant Favorite Interviewee of 1942

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 20.—(P)—Cary Grant, the Hollywood Women's Press Club voted, was movie-land's least co-operative actor in 1941. But the girls got together to compare notes the other day and discovered that Grant, 1942, was their favorite interview subject.

"Maybe his marriage (to Barbara Hutton) changed him," suggested the press club today in announcing this year's Golden Apple awards.

Municipal Market Sends Christmas Greetings to Its Many Friends

The Heart Beat And Throb of a Great Market

A Place Filled With Good Things To Eat, With a 'Homey' Atmosphere

By PRESS HUDDLESTON

Over 18 years ago a market for the receiving and selling of the farmers' products came into being through the efforts of a civic-minded group of Atlanta leaders. The group of growers, and others who sold, but did not grow their own products, moved from the sidewalks around the present city auditorium into a triangular red brick and concrete building prepared for them on Edgewood avenue between Butler, Bell and Boaz streets. Today a number of those original standholders are still at the market and with them, or in stands of their own, are their children and grandchildren. Having grown up, and some inter-married, at the market they carry on well the fine farm product market tradition and experience gained over the years. From time to time newer standholders have added their part to the cheerful "homey" atmosphere of the place. Miss Eula Lang, market manager, describes it this way:

"So like a little town is it, that we have our Red Cross roll call, our war stamp and war bond sales, 'key kan,' scrap metal and tin foil collections, too.

"As men go into defense work or the armed forces, our women and girls take over as checkers, clerks and butchers at the grocery stores and fish markets and operate the farm product stands. The women who are operating stands at the market are greatly in evidence. They do their own buying of vegetables and meats, arrange their own displays, cut up their hogs and hams and chickens and wait on their customers, and take care of their own money. Some of them are married and some are not, but all of them have people depending on them for support.

"Poultry, eggs, butter, meat, sweet potatoes are brought direct from the farms and sold from hand trucks, through the market. These producers have been coming here for years and find a cash market on which to sell their products, thereby helping themselves and Atlanta, as a lot of this money goes into the pockets of the merchants here.

"This would not be complete without a word of praise for those who have made possible the establishment of a civilian defense post at the market, co-ordinating the work of our volunteer first aid detachment and air raid warden's sector headquarters here. As this is a neighborhood activity, included in the personnel are representatives of Goodwill Industries, Georgia Power Company, Bell's Pharmacy, Fulton Bakery, Nolen Extentors and 14 municipal market people. The dedication of sector headquarters took place November 11, with a group of outstanding city, civilian defense and market board members attending.

"Many families have someone in the armed forces now, and it is very necessary this year to keep the home fires burning" during the Christmas season. The municipal market, with its many varied food departments, is geared to help you keep those fires burning. The table, with its good food and pleasant, leisurely conversation, is the center of many family reunions. Poultry, meats, country hams and sausage fresh made, together with all vegetables and fruits in season are offered by the farm product stands in the center of the market, while around the wall the eight meat markets, Walker and S. & W. Seafoods, Vincent's Bakery and Dutch Oven Bakery, United Food Store and Johnson's Grocery, "Piggly-Wiggly" and Little Star Super Markets round out our food program to make shopping easy and comfortable for our customers. Free parking on the large lot 'just around the corner' helps you to save gas and tires by parking once and doing all your shopping under one roof. See the municipal market ad for holiday hours, and profit by the experience of thousands of satisfied, happy customers by visiting the market in the 'heart of Atlanta' for your holiday food needs.

Frost Motor Company Gives Fine Service

Trained Mechanics Ready for All Types of Work on Motor Cars.

Notwithstanding the government is making great demands for skilled mechanics upon the repair and service departments of automobile concerns, not only in Atlanta, but throughout the entire United States, one Atlanta concern—the Frost Motor Company—is keeping up its excellent and complete service on repairs of all kinds for motorists.

The Frost concern keeps in constant training young men who, under the tutelage of W. J. Eldson, a veteran of 30 years' experience, soon becomes thoroughly skilled in all the ramifications of motor car equipment.

True, the concern has already furnished a large number of skilled mechanics to Uncle Sam, but with the nucleus of older heads, and with the fast and careful training of young men, it has lost none of its art and its prestige in furnishing the finest kind of service to motorists. A force of about 40 expert mechanics are on the job from day to day. They are men whose training and experience guarantees all motorcar owners an absolute and perfectly satisfying job when their cars are left at their place.

The Frost Motor Company occupies splendid and well-arranged quarters in a large building at 452 Peachtree, where 60,000 square feet of space is at its command. If your car or truck—any make—needs overhauling, needs any kind of repairs, there is ample room to drive in and have it inspected and a report given you on its needs.

Their expert is kept busy in their work of rebuilding and repairing motors, carburetors, fuel pumps, distributors, and all other necessary functional parts of cars and trucks.

Another feature that has made the concern popular is the fact that it has gone out for conservation in materials in conjunction with auto repairs, and just as far as possible uses parts that can be properly mended and repaired in rebuilding and putting cars and trucks back in good condition. This applies to both patrons and government work, and is a saving of both material and cost to its patrons.

However, the concern has a large and ample stock of replacement parts for all makes and sizes of cars and trucks, and these are used in repair of parts affected cannot be made.

And if, in making repairs—overhauling it in any way—parts and materials can be conserved and yet give a satisfactory job, that will be done. This applies to any size job, any size car or truck, and any make of car or truck.

TRAINED MECHANICS—Here you see above a part of the big service department of the Frost Motor Company, on Peachtree street, who has not only supplied the government with a large number of skilled mechanics, but who always have in their repair department a group of expert men, as shown above, who are kept busy rebuilding and repairing motors, carburetors, fuel pumps, distributors, and the like.

Like a Doctor Goes to the Sick, Lubricator Goes to 'Sick Trucks'

It is known as Tornado Service, —so called because of its hurrying and almost hurricane-like service —its quick and dependable work when it comes to lubricating trucks.

It's just like a hurry call to the doctor—for the lubricating force makes a quick call to the "sick" truck—to the truck that suddenly, or even occasionally, needs a big dose of lubricating oil. It GOES to the patient.

Two men—Rex Bell, owner and operator, and C. E. Brodnax, expert on lubrication—have been rendering a splendid and needed service to fleet owners, particularly to fleet owners, for some time. And they have grown so popular in this type of lubrication that they are kept on the jump all the time—day and night, for they have a 24-hour service.

Here's the way that new method works: Tornado Service has a large truck all fitted up complete with equipment for lubrication. It goes to see its patients. This truck, under the supervision of Brodnax, will rush out from 1553 Marietta street and lubricate trucks for patrons.

Of course, while it does not seek journeys for the lubrication of save danger of damage to and from lubricating places—by simply dealing with Tornado Service, whose primary object is to keep well lubricated any fleet of trucks. Such lubrication should be given trucks about once a week, and by a visit of Brodnax and his equipment, owners save practically the cost of the lubrication job in wear and tear, time of their drivers and going to the lubricator. And there's no extra charge for the work—just the usual lubricating price. Call BElmont 9147.

forded enemy fighters a wealth of time to climb into position to intercept the bombers.

In addition to being the site of an important Nazi airfield and plane park, Romilly-sur-Seine also contains railway shops.

At the same time the heavy bombers were stabbing deep into enemy country, nearly 300 aircraft of the Allied Fighter Command, including Americans, made a vast sweep over northern France from Le Havre to Graveline.

Many squadrons returned to report they had seen no enemy aircraft. Others said they sighted some German planes but that they did not offer battle.

An Air Ministry communique also disclosed that Britain's Mosquito bombers "attacked railway and industrial targets and an airfield in northwest Germany" during daylight today, and that "fighters on offensive patrols attacked railway and canal targets in Holland."

some of the finest grain in the Soviet Union.

The Stalingrad offensive, now extended 90 or more miles to the northwest, southwest and west, continued to move forward, with more villages falling to the Russians, while the steady liquidation of the Germans within the ruined Volga city continued.

On the central front in the strategic Rzhev-Viazma-Velikiye Luki triangle, the noon communique said the Soviets occupied two fortified positions west of Rzhev and "fought for the annihilation of German garrisons trapped" in the Velikiye Luki area 260 miles northwest of Moscow.

Germans in Panic.

Some 4,000 more Germans were killed overnight and 1,000 were captured in these 2,300 died in the new Voronezh offensive where the captives were taken, raising casualties for the five days of furious fighting there to 22,300 dead and 11,000 captured.

The army newspaper Red Star declared the Germans were in panic in the Voronezh-middle Don sector and that Russian tanks crunched westward over the snowy steppes often crushed terrified running enemy troops in their wake.

The pace was reported so swift that a tempo comparable to the German advance in the region last July—that the only means of escape for the Germans was in automobiles skidding over snow-banked roads.

"We can pursue them only in our own automobiles," Red Star declared. Some nine German divisions and a battalion—a total of 130,000 men including some of the cream of the Nazi Army—were declared in full rout.

The German speaking of the new offensive said strong Russian attacks "were repelled partly by counterattacks after bitter fighting" in the great Don bend and said the Reds lost 164 tanks. Other strong attacks were reported in the Stalingrad sector, on the westernmost front, and in the Terek-mid-Caucasus region.

The Germans claimed a gain between the Don and Volga.) The Voronezh-middle Don operation was a great enveloping movement with one Russian force sweeping down from west of Voronezh along the Moscow-Rostov railway, while another Army was moving from the east in the upper part of the Don elbow from the Bokovskaya region.

Railway Town.

The Russians were firmly in possession of the railway town of Kantemirovka, 54 miles north of Millerovo and were seriously menacing that railway junction, whose capture the Germans announced with fanfare last summer.

Kantemirovka appeared to be the westernmost point of advance. It lies 235 miles west of Stalingrad.

Izvestia reported long lines of captives, whose total is well over the official 11,000 figure, marching to the rear under the alert eyes of white-robed Cossacks.

The battle was being fought in a heavy snow fall with howling winds so strong that the coat tails of the Red Army men flapped out behind them as they chased Hitler's once proud army.

The development of the offensive proved the soundness of the Russian strategy last summer in exerting the greatest vigor to hold Voronezh, which now has become the springboard of the attack, Russians said. The strategy was devised by Premier Joseph Stalin and the massive victory provides a happy birthday setting for the man of steel who is 63 Monday.

Dispatches said that everywhere from the White Sea to the Black Sea the invading armies were either in full flight, surrounded or menaced by their pursuers.

Leaders Listed.

In the section south of Voronezh, the forces of square-jawed, shaven-headed Lieutenant General F. I. Golikov, commander of the Voronezh front, were sweeping down from the west. General Golikov visited both the United States and Great Britain, as a member of a purchasing committee a few months ago.

The other army driving from the northwest was commanded by smiling, round-faced Colonel General N. F. Vatutin, commander of the southwestern front. Other commanders in the offensive were Lieutenant General Kuznetsov and Lelushenko and Major General Kharetonov.

Golikov, Lelushenko and Kuznetsov were among the commanders who turned the Nazi tide away from Moscow last winter, and Kharetonov once took to the road for the foe.

Izvestia declared the Germans were not on the offensive at a single point in the whole 2,000 mile front and added:

"The new victory will find repercussions at Stalingrad and Rzhev and at Velikiye Luki. We have started battering the Germans and will continue to batter them until the whole country is liberated from the German vermin."

As Red Star predicted last month when the opening offensive was launched at Stalingrad, that drive was only the beginning of a series of actions to grind the Germans to bits.

In cutting the Moscow-Rostov railway, the current offensive has wrested from the Germans one of their most important communication lines in all south Russia.

As Vatutin's and Golikov's armies pushed the westward and southwestward toward Kharkov and the heart of the rich Don basin, it appeared that vast new areas might fall easily to the Red army.

Hitler's 22 divisions fighting so fiercely for their lives between the Volga and the Don in the Stalingrad salient found their position worsened as a result of the new offensive. They appeared to be in a position from which it would be difficult to fight their way out, even if they decided to try it. The Voronezh offensive began as did those at Stalingrad and on the central front with a powerful artillery barrage which blasted the Fascists from their deepest fortifications.

The Russians pulled up vast numbers of their big, middle-sized and little guns and jockeyed them into position by night. They scouted the enemy strong points thoroughly seeking weak points.

Troops then were assembled with tanks, awaiting the starting signal. This was a series of big blazing rockets shot upwards in the icy sky fingering the misty bright moonlight night.

Fortifications.

The Russian communique said the Germans had been fortifying their positions along the right bank of the Don since summer. This was a series of big blazing rockets shot upwards in the icy sky fingering the misty bright moonlight night.

The first break in the middle Don front came after Soviet artillery had pounded the Germans for three hours. With Nazi fortifications in ruins, Russian infantry and tanks poured forward and the panicked Germans fled. The initial advance was three miles through a gap several miles wide. Numerous villages were taken—well over 200 have fallen in the path of the charging Reds.

As has been the case in all other Russian offensives, the details were not announced until the drive was in full flower. The operations started early last week.

By the time Vatutin's forces reached the second main line of defenses, the Germans had recoiled and were counterattacking actively. Russian tanks subdued them and the Reds rolled on.

Russians striking from the northwest reached the basic point of Derzovka and met considerable resistance. The Russian commander decided to outflank the point. Red Star said the maneuver proved correct, for the surrounding positions were most vulnerable.

Good for Your Family!

Smashing on westward, the Soviets soon cut the Moscow-Rostov railway. Dispatches have not yet announced the capture of Derzovka, which probably is surrounded.

The Russians recaptured Boguchar and Tai, near the point where the Don swings east in its widest loop, only after the bitterest battle.

Red Star said the Nazis kept strong garrisons there since the towns were seized last July. Hundreds of machines and vast stores of munitions and foods were taken at Boguchar.

The fall of Boguchar was accomplished by an outflanking maneuver. The town was surrounded and then the Russians charged down street after street in fighting that raged several hours. West of Boguchar, Red Star said the breach in the enemy lines widened to 57 miles.

U.S. Hotel Unit Names Dinkler To Food Group

Committee of Three Will Work With OPA Program Chiefs.

Carling Dinkler, president of Dinkler Hotels, Inc., with executive offices in Atlanta, has been appointed one of three members on the food committee of the American Hotel Association, it was announced yesterday.

Theodore DeWitt, of DeWitt Operated Hotels, Cleveland, Ohio, was named chairman, and Frank W. Kridel, of Kridel Hotels, New York, was the third member appointed.

The appointments were made by Harold VanOrman, president of the American Hotel Association, at the request of Dr. R. T. Palmer, associate director of food rationing of the Office of Price Administration.

Dr. Palmer explained it was essential for the successful promulgation of the government's program that a committee representative of the hotel business act as liaison officers between OPA and the nation's hotels.

The committee will be called to Washington for frequent conferences on the food situation as it develops, it was said.

General Giraud Is Rescued By U.S. Sub Crew

military leader of the African campaign, west of Algiers for a secret parley with pro-Allied Frenchmen prior to the November 8 invasion.

On that amazing undercover job General Giraud and other American military leaders did invaluable preliminary spadework in charting the course of the Allied invasion, and the general lost his clothes and $18,000 when the small boat he was in overturned after fulfillment of his mission.

Eisenhower's commendation of Wright for his part in the exploit said:

"As commander in chief of the Allied forces I desire to express to you my appreciation and commendation for the able manner in which you developed and executed the exacting and difficult task which enabled General Giraud of the French army to leave France by submarine for consultation with me and my staff in North Africa.

"The sound judgment and courage you displayed in accomplishing this important undertaking, and in keeping with the finest traditions of the United States Navy."

Captain Jerauld Wright, 44 years old and a native of Amherst, Mass., knows the waters around the North African coast from World War day experience. Graduated from Annapolis in 1917, he was assigned immediately to an American fighting ship engaged in patrol and convoy duty and based at Gibraltar, the big British "Rock" which looks across the strait to the area now occupied by the United Nations.

Wright has had years of Navy experience afloat and ashore, on ships ranging from the four-stackers destroyers of World War days to battlewagons. For two years he was on Asiatic station, assigned to a destroyer, then in 1924 came back to Washington to serve on the old presidential yacht Mayflower until 1926, when he was assigned to the battleship Maryland.

After a tour of duty at the capital again—in the Bureau of Ordnance—he returned to sea on the cruiser Salt Lake City, then came back ashore as a member of the executive staff at the naval academy.

After several years back at Washington, he was given command of the destroyer Blue. He again returned to the Navy Department before another tour of duty at sea as executive officer of the battleship Mississippi in recent years.

He was awarded the Victory medal for service in the World War.

Japs' General In New Guinea Reported Dead

Allied Attack Launched Against Pocketed Foe Near Buna.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Monday, Dec. 21.—(P)—General MacArthur's command announced today that it had launched a general attack against the pocketed Japanese forces in the Buna Mission area of New Guinea and that the Japanese commander, Lieutenant General Tomotomori, already had been reported killed in action.

Allied tanks spearheaded the action, directed at one of the two remaining enemy pockets on the Papuan peninsula. Nearby Cape Sanananda is the other. Big and strong Japanese bases remain also at Lae and Salamaua, about 180 miles farther up the New Guinea coast.

"On the right," said the Allied Headquarters' noon communique of the Buna action, "we have launched a general attack. Under cover of artillery fire our tanks, accompanied closely by our infantry, are moving in."

"The enemy's position is deteriorating."

"In the other sectors, ground has been gained and supplies and equipment captured, including 20 machineguns. The enemy's casualties have been heavy."

"The Japanese commander, Lieutenant General Horii, is reported to have been killed in action."

General Horii, who had directed a stubborn resistance to the Allies for many weeks, was known as a specialist in landing operations. His men established beachheads, sometimes under punishing Allied blows, and then maintained their positions in cleverly-built fortifications which made the most of the terrain.

Little Known of Horii. There were no details of the action in which Horii was reported killed, and likewise little is known of him before his reported appearance on the New Guinea battlefield in November.

The Allied soldiers pushed the Japanese back across the Owen Stanley ridge during the fall and early in November began applying the pressure on the Buna-Gona sector. Hard and bitter fighting has been reported since then from that area as the Allies slowly moved forward.

Gona fell first and then Buna village was captured last Monday. Cape Endiade fell to the Allies yesterday.

Flames Destroy Duluth Parsonage

DULUTH, Ga., Dec. 20.—The Methodist parsonage here was destroyed by flames of an undetermined origin late this afternoon. The Rev. A. A. Phillips, pastor of the church, said when the flames were discovered the roof was about to fall. No one was in the house at the time.

The house, a six-room frame building, and contents were valued at $3,000. One-third of this was covered by insurance. L. B. Findley, chairman of the board of trustees, said steps would be taken at an early date for providing a new building.

Wavell's Army Only 60 Miles From Akyab

approximately two hours but the high-flying planes were over the city only about 30 minutes.

Reports so far indicate that the few bombs dropped were widely dispersed," the communique said. "Civilian casualties were extremely light and damage was slight. There were no military casualties. No damage was caused to military installations."

Fighter planes co-operating with the ground troops who now have negotiated more than 40 miles of swamp and jungle country in their southward thrust flew ahead to shoot up Japanese-held buildings and installations in the Akyab area and along the Mayu river. Big bombers also planted explosives on buildings and runways at the enemy's Toungoo airdrome 250 miles southeast of Akyab.

Rangoon Bombed. (A Tokyo radio report said that Rangoon, the main Burmese port, was bombed by six Allied planes today, and a Chungking communique announced a new Japanese thrust from Burma into China's southern province of Yunnan in the Mengma area.)

General Sir Archibald P. Wavell's re-equipped Indian army began its offensive several days ago after extensive maneuvers designed to test the endurance of the troops, but informed quarters here were quick to warn against undue optimism arising over the developments.

"We want to warn you not to go out on a limb about this operation," these quarters said. They said the campaign was not a major effort to retake Burma, but of course could be considered as the beginning of a piecemeal strategy with the larger goal always in mind.

Million-Man Army.

General Wavell has perhaps 1,000,000 men under his Indian command, but there was no way of telling the size of the present expedition. Informed quarters did not attempt to estimate the number of troops employed, nor to disclose the scope of Allied plans.

The terrain problems involved in Burma are stupendous. There were several apparent reasons for the thrust. Possession of Akyab would give the Allies an air base only 350 miles from Rangoon which must be seized eventually if the Burma road to China is to be reopened and equipment sped to that United Nations ally.

The capture of Akyab also would shorten the present Allied air route to China, and would dislodge the Japanese from a base only 340 air miles across the Bay of Bengal from the big Indian city of Calcutta. The Rangoon-Mandalay railway also would be only 200 miles from Allied bombers operating from Akyab.

Upsetting Jap Push.

Another distinct advantage seen in the British push was its timing. For weeks now the Chinese have expressed belief that the Japanese based in northern Burma and Yunnan Province of Southern China were mounting an offensive. The British drive could be a diversion aimed at upsetting any such Japanese venture.

Even without resistance the British army's progress will be slow, because of terrain problems, informed sources here said.

New Jap Thrust Begins in Yunnan.

CHUNGKING, China, Dec. 20.—(P)—Japanese troops have made a new drive from the south into China's southern province of Yunnan in an apparent diversion thrust from Burma, a communique said today.

The Japanese crossed the Nan Lwi river, a tributary of the Mekong, at Mengma. The next Chinese town of any importance is Lantsang, about 60 miles north-east of Mengma.

There was no indication of the scope of the Japanese thrust, but it was believed to be a diversionary movement intended to confuse the Chinese who thus far have held Japanese troops west of the Salween river in the Tengyueh sector of Yunnan far to the north-west.

The Japanese crossed the Nan Lwi river in an operation beginning at their base in Kengtung. Kengtung is between the Salween river and about 150 miles southeast of the Burma road crossing of the Salween river.

Last Member of Lee's Staff Has to Stand Up on Long Trip

A 97-year-old Confederate veteran yesterday stood up on a train the 152 miles from Meridian, Miss., to Birmingham, Ala.

The veteran, Major General O. R. Gillette, last member of the staff of General Robert E. Lee, made this disclosure yesterday when he arrived at Columbus, Ga., from Shreveport, La.

General Gillette came to Georgia to pin bars of a lieutenant on his son, William Chandler Gillette, who is scheduled to graduate from the Fort Benning Officer school Saturday.

Charles L. Smith, of Waycross, Ga., staff sergeant bombardment pilot at the San Angelo (Texas) Army Air Field bombardier school and son of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Smith, of 108 Druid Circle, N. E., Atlanta, has lost his stripes.

But it's all right with Smith. For he was one of the first pilots in the nation to don the Army's newest thing in insignia, the blue and gold bar of the "Flight Officer."

One of 39 staff sergeant pilots who advanced to flight officers at the bombardier school, Smith is a 1939 graduate of Waycross High school and was a theater employe before entering the service. He became a staff sergeant pilot last September.

As a flight officer he will continue his job of flying bombardier cadets and their instructors to and from the target ranges in West Texas. With a military rating which might be that of a third lieutenant, he rates a salute and all the courtesy shown a commissioned officer. Newly created by an act of congress, the flight officer gets the rank, pay and allowances provided for warrant officers, junior grade.

Arthur L. Berry, of 722 Reed street, and Samuel J. Harris, of 919 Woodland avenue, S. E., are now stationed at Jefferson Barracks, Missouri.

Yule Seal Appeal Brings $19,689

With some returns yet to be received from the 1942 Tuberculosis Christmas Seal appeal, Joseph B. Wolfe said yesterday $19,689 had been raised. Wolfe added the association expects $29,000 to be raised.

"We hope," Wolfe said, "that no one will disregard this opportunity to do some part, whether large or small, in helping to lessen the ravages of this disease in our community."

Tentative plans are under way by the association, according to Wolfe, to intensify the search for tuberculosis among apparently well people.

FBI Captures Man Indicted for Murder

Arrest of Matthews Williams, alias Newt Williams, Negro, who is under indictment by the Baldwin county grand jury for the murder of Earnest Saviors, 15-year-old Baldwin county Negro, was announced yesterday by the Atlanta office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Williams was arrested Saturday night in Philadelphia on a charge of "unlawful flight to avoid prosecution" authorized by the United States attorney at Macon.

This son of a peasant cobbler who was born Joseph Vissarionovich Dzugashvili and received the name Stalin—man of steel—from Nicolai Lenin, leader of the Soviet revolution, is accounted by Russians not only the leader of the state but the chief Russian strategist in the struggle against the Germans.

Even in times of peace few of the world's leading men labored as long and as hard as Stalin, and with the advent of war, from what can be learned from beyond the towering red walls of the Kremlin, he has added many hours to his day's work.

No Arm-Chair Chief.
The Red army already has brought Stalin his birthday present—its swift and excellent execution of two offensives, the first at his namesake city of Stalingrad on the southern Russian front, and the second on the central front northwest of Moscow. Now it is chalking up successes in a third in the Voronezh area.

Stalin is no arm-chair commander. Never announced, Russians first learned of the personal participation of Stalin in last winter's defense of Moscow from a picture, quietly exhibited, of Stalin and his commanders meeting in a small cabin at the front outside the capital.

Since the German armies drove deeply into Russia's lands from Leningrad to the Black Sea, Stalin and not his general and field marshals, has been the real director of the Red army. His staff chiefs have been consulted, but he is believed to have been the master strategist in Russia's war moves.

He has accepted the responsibility for Russian setbacks and the credit for Red army victories.

Knows Fronts.
Marshal Klement E. Voroshilov, former defense commissar who is now training new Russian armies in the Far East, said of Stalin:

"His name is a synonym for the Red army."

Stalin, Voroshilov said, had been able to speak of military tactics as a man who understood them as long ago as the civil war which brought the Soviet government into power after the last war.

The aim of tactics, Voroshilov said, is to determine "the ways, means, forms and methods of struggle most suited to the concrete circumstances at a given moment and most certain to prepare a strategic success."

The German armies deep in the snows and icy blasts of a Russian winter, retreating as other armies have before them, lent force to Voroshilov's tribute.

Stalin knows the Russian fronts not from maps but from personal visits, the first of which were made when he was shifted from front to front during Russia's civil war.

A recent American visitor to Stalin's office remarked at Stalin's intimate knowledge of small details of the fighting front.

"He could talk without a map; he could talk of little things that few people would notice. I know because I had been there and seen them and he recalled them to me like a camera," said this American.

"Tough Guy."
Much of the mystery which has long surrounded Stalin has disappeared as he has talked with Prime Minister Winston Churchill, Admiral William H. Standley, U. S. ambassador; Wendell Willkie, Lord Beaverbrook, Sir Stafford Cripps, Harry Hopkins, and many other United Nations military and political leaders.

He has been reported as a warmly human man—but tough. He laughs a great deal, it is said, makes jokes at the expense of his guests, but likes nothing better than when they come back at him. He has picked up the American expression "tough guy," recently used in it describing an American visitor, and the way he grinned indicated he liked what it meant.

Next you trim away the excess lumbar and sacral fat. But that's only half the battle in preparing a trimmed full loin. The book cautions:

"Then all fat shall be removed which extends above a flat plane using the following two lines as guides for each edge of the plane: An imaginary line parallel with the full length of the protruding edge of the lumbar section of the chine bone which line extends 1 inch directly above such protruding edge; a line on the inside of the loin two inches from the flank edge and running parallel with such edge for the full length of the loin."

(You can move the theodolite over by the woodshed now, Albert.)

The pamphlet contains a veritable mine of information for the layman, if not the butcher. "Hindquarter," the regulations explain, means "the posterior portion of the side remaining after the severance of the 12-rib forequarter from the side." The "forequarter" is "the anterior portion of the side remaining after the severance of the 1-rib hindquarter."

The booklet declares rather primly that "the skirt (diaphragm) shall not be removed from any cut or part of the forequarter to which it is attached."

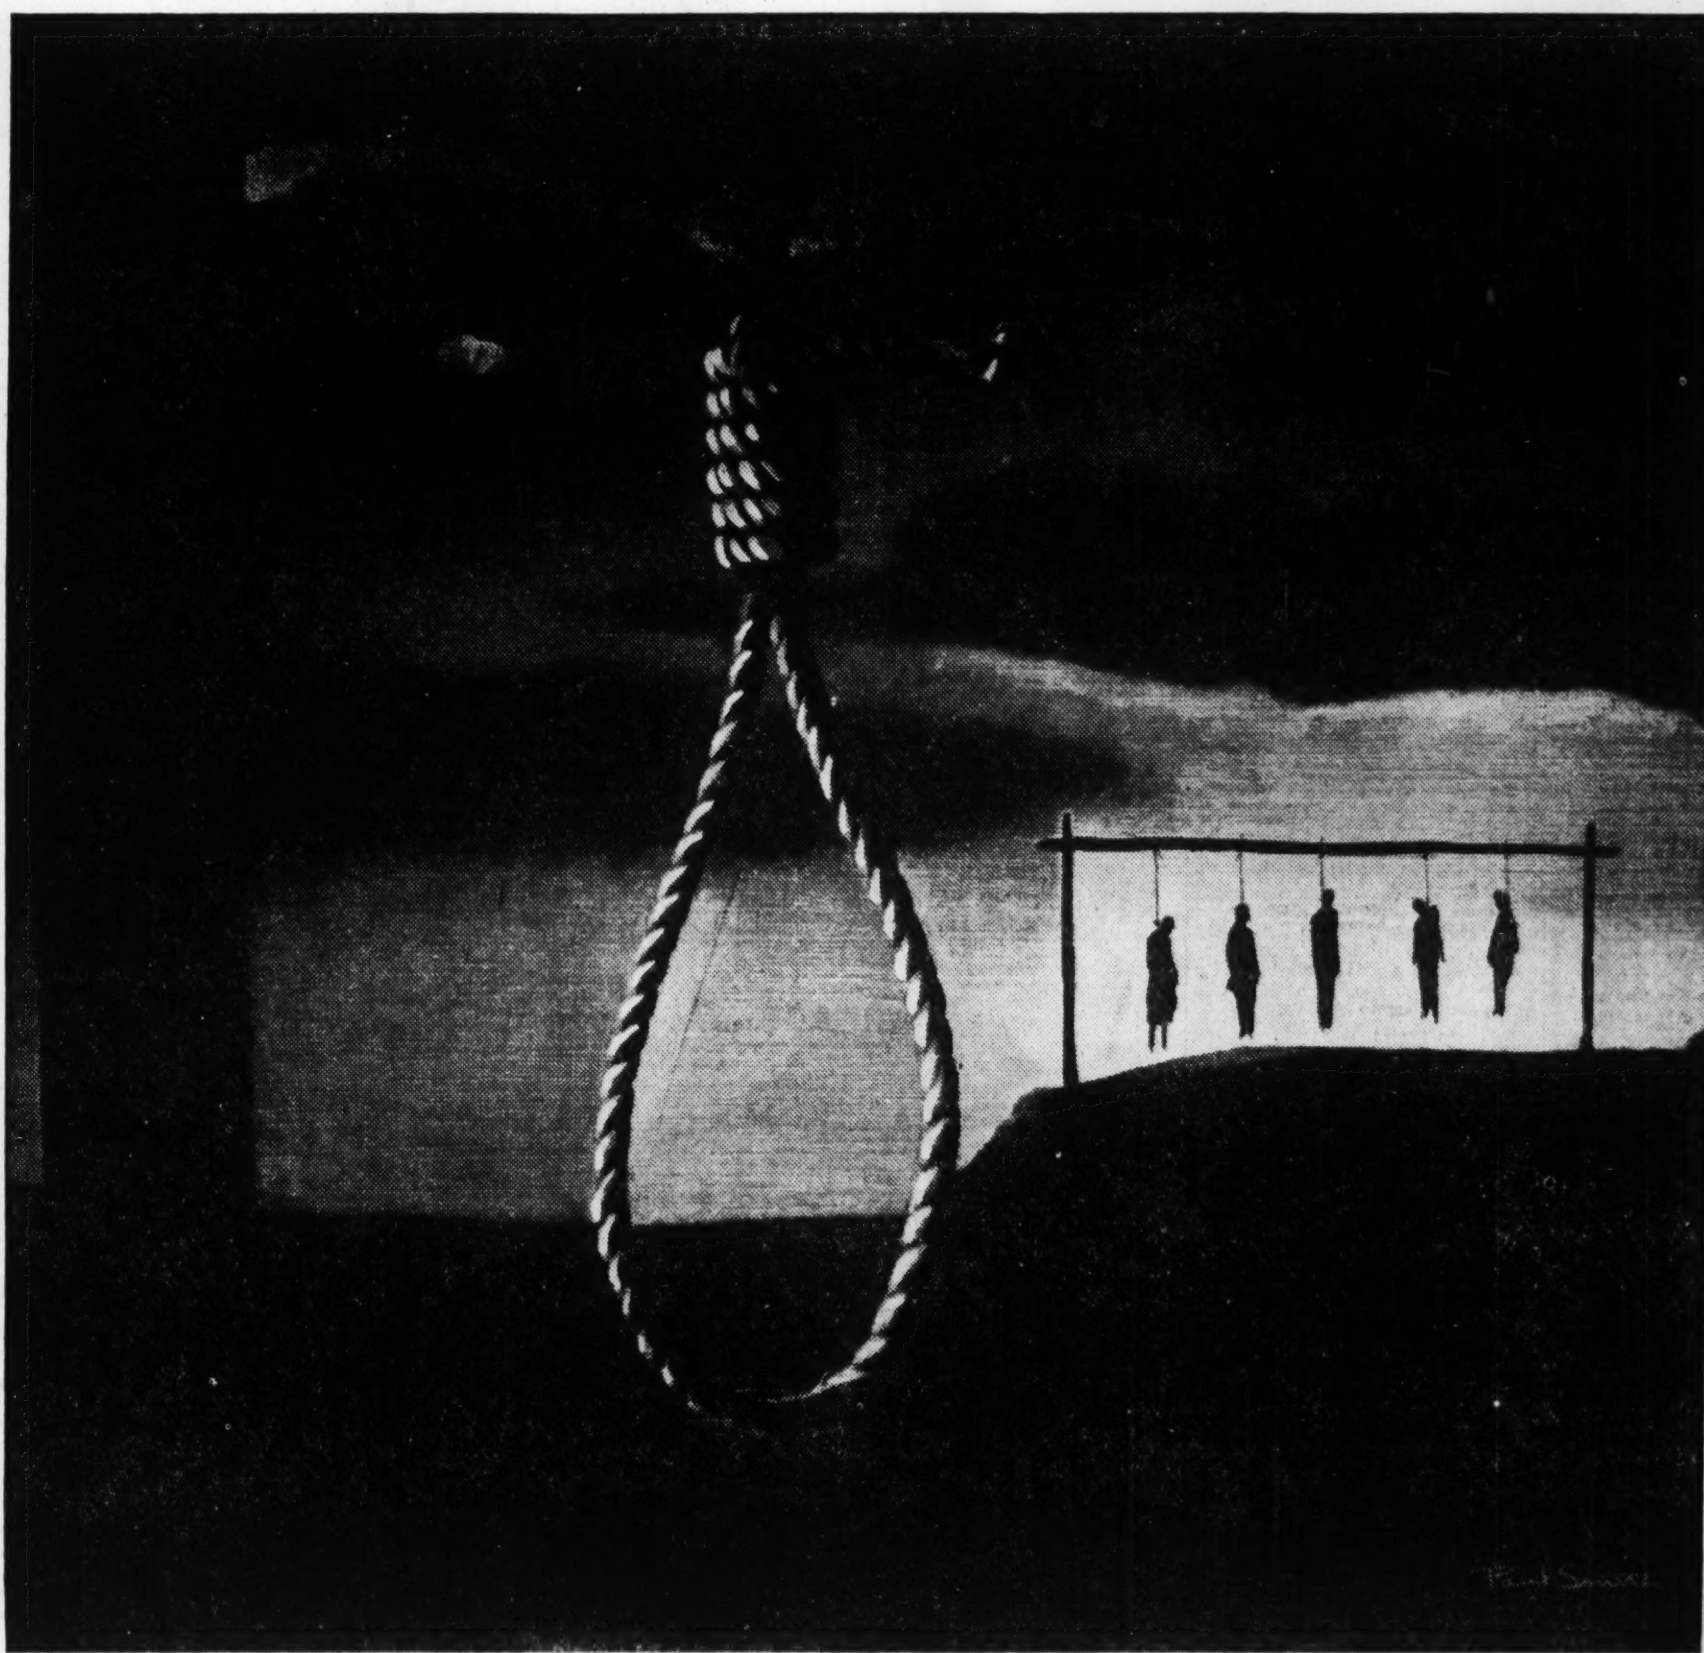

In a foreword, OPA and the Office of War Information explain that it was necessary to get some system into the cutting of beef carcasses in order that the new wholesale price ceilings might apply to uniform cuts of beef over the country. The order—and the ceilings—affect only beef carcasses and wholesale cuts at the slaughterer and wholesaler level.

The instructions are reticent as to how the animal shall be killed. Apparently anything goes.

ODDLY enough, this type of collar fits all kinds of people...Czechs and Poles, Frenchmen and Norwegians, Russians and Greeks.

It fits women as well as men, the old as snugly as the young, the strong as firmly as the weak.

It is designed especially for conquered people...and reserved for those among the conquered who dare to stick their necks out. Who presume they have the right to read or circulate forbidden newspapers and magazines, to listen to forbidden radio programs. Who get themselves accused...on no matter how little evidence...of spying or interfering or getting in the way.

Now, in the newspapers and magazines we so freely read, we see pictures of strange people...foreign people...hanging from such nooses. Still and silent, their arms by their sides, their heads slightly askew as if they did not completely comprehend what had happened.

We have escaped it...so far. So far, these hangings have happened only to far-away people. Have you ever seriously thought that someday you might be the mute subject for such photographs?

You can be...

The country that we expect to fight this war for us, the country we assume is invincible, the country we look upon as millions of "other people"...that country can lose this war.

Can lose it unless you...and unless we who sign this advertisement...look upon it as our individual responsibility. Unless we do not wait to be told what to do, but go out and find out for ourselves what to do, and do it. Unless we realize that each one of us is the country.

It's not a minute too soon to get the picture straight...not a minute too soon to pitch in and help turn the tide...not a minute too soon to do everything humanly possible, now, to save our necks.

Dishes To Stretch Your Meat Ration

By Ida Jean Kain.

Smiling at the butcher doesn't make much difference these days. If he hasn't got it, you can't get it. So, go to market with an open imagination and plan your menu on the spot around whatever meat is available.

Now, let's see... he has plenty of liver. Fried liver with onion goes fine with baked potatoes, string beans, stewed tomatoes, a fruit compote desert and coffee—if you have any.

Or, maybe he will let you have a pound of lean meat. Oh, you want to serve six? Then stretch it! One way is to make the pound into a meat pie. Stew the meat first with an assortment of vegetables, put it into a casserole, top with pastry, and bake.

If it's ground meat, you can spread it over six to eight servings. Moisten the meat with two or three tablespoons of milk, season with salt and pepper, and toast six—or eight—slices of bread on one side. Then spread the meat clear to the edges on the untoasted side, dot with butter, and slip into the broiler.

And here is what can be done with a pound of sausage: Take apples and cabbage and arrange in alternate layers in a baking dish. Fry the sausage in cakes and lay on top. Then mix a tablespoonful of vinegar with the sausage fat and pour over the cabbage, season with salt and cover and bake until the latter are tender. If you bake potatoes at the same heat, you will have a dinner on a par with any you had back in the good old days.

I don't know why—except that I'm trying to help out in the "share the meat program"—I should be trying to pass along recipes to all of you good cooks. I know you know how to cook veal birds. But the Market Basket, from Washington, says one bird with dressing is worth two without. After cutting the veal into two or three-inch strips, spread with your special dressing, roll, and skewer in neat packages. Then brown in fat. Add a little water and braise slowly in a covered baking dish until tender.

For other sure-fire ways of extending meat, try these: Patties with crumbs, or mashed potatoes; meat steaks with noodles or dumplings; spaghetti or macaroni with meat balls, tomato sauce and cheese; leftover meats—if any—in croquettes, or hash with potatoes and onions.

Meat loaf can be a gourmet's recipe for the cheaper cuts. I like mine with creamed potatoes, braised carrots, a grapefruit and watercress salad, and milk for the beverage. Dessert? That depends on how much you weigh. Perhaps you'd better skip it.

Christmas Popcorn Balls Made Without Sugar

By SALLY SAVER.

Popcorn balls make pretty and patriotic Christmas tree decorations. No material needed for the military is required to make these old-fashioned sweets. A bright colored string can be tied into the balls before they harden for tying them on the tree or for making festoons. Here's the sugarless recipe:

- 1-2 cup syrup
- 1-2 cup light molasses
- 1-4 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon vinegar
- 2 tablespoons butter

Combine syrup, molasses, salt and vinegar in saucepan and cook to 265 degrees F. or until a little of the syrup forms a hard ball in cold water. Stir carefully while cooking to prevent scorching. Remove from heat and add butter. Slowly pour the hot syrup over the popped corn and mix. Before it hardens form into balls with greased fingertips.

Woman Should Take Time To Think Before a Divorce

By Dixie George.

Dear Dixie:

My husband and I have been married six years. He is 34 and I am 23, but no one thinks he is that much older. He has always been nice to me and provided for me to the best of his ability. At times he is very moody and, of course, I do not like that. A short time ago he enlisted in the service, but he is able to come home at night. I am a typist and have a good job, so I feel that I can get along without him and be happier. He tells me I am stuck on myself. This makes me furious and it caused each of us to say some very mean things and he left for the night. He came back the next morning and said he was sorry it had happened and I told him he could go his way and that I would take care of myself. This is a great shock to him, also to my parents, and has caused them much grief, as they think he is the perfect son-in-law. Our friends cannot understand our actions either. I have asked him to stay away and give me time to think and he has agreed to do so. I was very young when I married and I do not think I loved him as I should. Am I right or wrong, since I was not the one who left? I do not think I will miss him very much, as I like to go and have a good time. Do you think I will regret my decision?

DEPARTED SOUL.

At the moment I do not think you will regret this, but as the days, weeks and months pass I think that you will feel a loneliness in your heart for him and an empty feeling in your life. You cannot live on just a good time and going out, but, of course, everyone should have some enjoyment and diversion in life.

You must look at this from both sides. You must take into consideration the fact that your husband has had to enter an entirely new phase of life. He has had to readjust himself to army life and anything he does now should be regarded and accepted by you in a lighter mood than formerly. I think what you really need is to be separated from him for a while so you can think, as you say, but also as a means of realizing that all that glitters is not gold, to employ a trite expression in reference to your thirst for good times at the expense of giving up your husband. I think you both are to blame for his leaving. Of course he left, but it was just in a flare-up of temper and he proved his mistake by coming back and saying he was sorry. You know he takes a lot to say "I'm sorry" and really mean it. I think your husband meant it and I think you have been a bit too quick in wanting to walk out. I think that you will miss him a great deal when he is gone, and you will learn by experience. After a while I think you will find that the good times you will lose a great deal of the glamour and excitement you expected. I would advise you to live apart from him if you think best, but wait awhile before getting a divorce.

GIRL JOINING THE SERVICE

Dear Dixie:

I am an 18-year-old girl and I am interested in joining the WAFS. Could you tell me where I might find out some information regarding this subject?

Rev. and Mrs. Read Celebrate Anniversary.

The silver wedding anniversary of the Rev. and Mrs. Charles Day Read, of Ben Hill Methodist church, was recently celebrated at a reception at their home. Lovely gifts expressed the esteem in which the couple is held.

A gift from the Ben Hill Methodist church was presented by W. O. Suttles, chairman of the board of stewards, following the singing of "Silver Threads Among the Gold" by Mrs. W. O. Suttles.

The parsonage was decorated with flowers and silver bells. A beautiful wedding cake and pink candles in silver candelabra formed the centerpiece of the dining room table.

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Suttles received with Rev. and Mrs. Read. Assisting were Misses Addie, Pauline and Katie Cash, Katherine Baker and Lois Van Norden; Mesdames Marcus Cash, E. A. Van Norden and W. M. Crawford.

Mrs. Read was lovely in dusty pink, and her flowers were carnations and valley lilies. Mrs. Suttles wore light blue chiffon and her flowers were gladioli and snapdragons.

MY DAY: An Hour's Chat With Woolcott

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, Friday.—Last night I had the pleasure of having Earl Robinson come down from New York City to play us a new composition. One of his favorite themes is Abraham Lincoln, and this has a haunting quality and is a stirring and stimulating composition.

Later, we all went over to the Stage Door Canteen, which is scarcely a stone's throw from the White House, being in the old Belasco theater. Miss Antoinette Perry, Miss Helen Menken, Milton Berle and various other artists were making a great success of the evening for the soldiers. I took part in a broadcast, listened to Earl Robinson sing some songs, in which the audience could join in the chorus; heard Alexander Woolcott add another laugh to the many which Mr. Berle had already elicited, and then came home to an hour's chat with Mr. Woolcott in my sitting room.

He is a most delightful guest, even though a most distracting one, because one would like to steal more time out of one's busy day to talk with him and to listen to him. He gave me today a page from a magazine, in which he describes a wedding present given to a young couple separated by the war. Of course, what he has done is to give thousands of such young couples, to parents and children, and to friends, an unforgettable suggestion. In this particular case, the girl told him: "Right now we have to build our marriage on paper, so letters overflow my bureau drawers and have to be stored downstairs in my trunk." Then he finds the perfect paragraph: "Let those who may complain, remember that only on paper has humanity yet achieved beauty, truth, knowledge, virtue and abiding love."

This morning I met with a group of Latin-American gentlemen who are here studying agro-economics and who faced me with some pretty difficult problems, which I attempted to answer as truthfully as possible. They seemed to me somewhat in the unanswerable field, because when you are asked what a nation such as ours may do in the future, you are guessing pure and simple. You can only state your hopes and determination to try to make those hopes come true.

I had the pleasure, too, of seeing Begum Shah Nawaz and learning a little of what she is trying to do in the health and education fields for the women and children of Punjab. It is hard to believe that she lived hidden behind a veil until the age of 24. The women of India have certainly come a long way in the last few years.

Correct Application of Boric Acid

EYE WASH.

Is the daily use of a home made solution of boric acid in rain water as an eye wash harmful to the eyes? My daughter wears glasses for nearsightedness, and it worries me to have her use this eye wash so frequently.

(MRS. L. J.)

Probably the girl has acquired the belief that her eyes are "weak"—myopia or nearsightedness if often regarded as "weakness" of the eyes—and imagine that the regular use of an eye wash will "strengthen" her eyes.

There is no foundation in fact for such belief. If anything the prolonged or habitual use of this or any other eye wash or drops would tend to make the eyes appear "weaker" or less clear and bright, though, of course, it would have no appreciable influence on the eyesight or vision.

Boric (formally called boracic) acid may be had in colorless or pearly scales or in white powder. It is very cheap. It is not a germicide, but has mild antiseptic effect when used in powder, ointment or solution.

Even the antiseptic value (that is, power to prevent or retard multiplication of germs) of boric acid solution applied as drops or as a wash for the eyes, as spray or irrigation in throat or nose, as mouthwash, bladder wash, bowl wash or enema, is feeble at best, for the boric acid solution is not only not germicidal but when so applied it is in contact with the surface only for a brief moment.

Bette Davis and Miriam Hopkins Fight Way Through Newest Picture

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 20.—The battle of the film century is raging on the set of "Old Acquaintance," where Bette Davis and Miriam Hopkins are co-starring, and where they "clash" each other all day, but where they are fighting tooth and nail (metaphorically) to hold their own in the picture.

The director, Vincent Sherman, who deserves an award for diplomacy in keeping the girls as far away from each other as possible by placing their chairs and make-up tables at different sides of the set.

set. When the couple appeared in "The Old Maid," the fight was line by line. Now it's word for word, with the contest more or less a stalemate. Popular opinion wants the victory to swing to Bette.

It's a sad fact but Miriam is not as popular as Bette is by the people who matter on the sets—that is, the prop men, grips, electricians. The boys know that Miss Davis will go to bat for them if their rights are infringed upon. But they could not be too hard in judging Miriam. She has lots of private worries to keep her from smiling. Here's one of them: Miriam owns a house in New York's swank Sutton Place section. Garson Kanin rented it from her a short time ago, and because he was in the Army got it for $350 a month instead of the usual $800 previously asked and received by Miriam. Came the ceiling on rents and now Miriam can get only $350 a month for the duration. And most, if not all, of this goes for house taxes.

Tyrone Power beats the Navy barber to the punch by getting a close haircut in Hollywood before reporting for duty. Myrna Loy and husband dine unobtrusively at Romanoff's. They are ignored by the others there. Can it be that Myrna, who has been absent from the screen now for more than a year, has already been forgotten?

I expect a howl of protest from her fans who have better memories than Hollywoodites. Prince Mike, by the way, is still penning the story of his life, "Now It's My Turn." It should make spicy reading. Mike tells the story of the time he was held up by a thief "and," he says, "You know I didn't get anything from him."

I have lunch with Joan Leslie and she tells me she will be 18 years old in January. This means no more schooling for the girl who has been the screen wife of Gary Cooper, Jimmy Cagney, and who will be the girl friend of Fred Astaire in her next picture. All the boys mentioned will never see 40 again. Joan is currently working in "Thank Your Lucky Stars," and in it does imitations of Ida Lupino, Cagney, and an impersonation of Errol Flynn as prizefighter "Gentleman Jim" Corbett, which is quite a lot of talent for one little girl to display.

Joan was originally picked to play, sing and dance with Astaire in "Holiday Inn."

"I gave him the audition," says Joan, "and he paid me the highest compliment when he said I had brains in my feet."

She couldn't dance with Fred then because her home studio, Warners, wanted her for "Yankee Doodle Dandy." For the new picture with Fred, "Look Out Below," RKO had to sell Warners the rights to refilm "Of Human Bondage" and "Animal Kingdom." The first named, if you remember, catapulted Bette Davis to fame.

Cecil B. DeMille lunches with nine of his "yes" men at Paramount. He inquires after the health of my daughter and demands, "When Can I Direct Her in a Picture?" Not for another 20 years, C. B., if then. From what I have seen of the young women in pictures happiness is something that does not go with the job.

Katherine Cornell will do her next portrait of "Romeo and Juliet" with a Hollywood extra. The boy is Lon McCallister. His father is the gatekeeper at the RKO studio. Lon gets his first role in Lon Lesser's picture, "Stage Door Canteen." And next month he treks to New York to play Romeo to Miss Cornell's Juliet for one of the scenes in the film. This is jumping to fame with a vengeance. Nice going, Lon.

Ika Chase tells this one about Clare Boothe. "I used to be telephoned by lieutenants." Clare is supposed to have said to Ika, "Now only colonels call me."

Well, we are all getting on, but Clare, of all women I know, shows least the march of time.

Removing Hair From Legs. Please recommend what you consider the best means of removing hair from the legs. (Miss R. D.)

Answer—Mix two teaspoonfuls of fresh barium sulfide with three teaspoonfuls of zinc oxide and three teaspoonfuls of cornstarch. Moisten this with water to make a paste. Apply to hairy surface and allow to remain ten minutes—or less time if any burning sensation. Scrape off paste and hairs with smooth wooden blade, and wash skin with several rinsings of warm water. Some women prefer simple shaving with safety razor. Every girl to her taste.

Answer—Forty years ago, Ma'am, I, for one, had never heard of "allergy," really wonder whether the condition has become common in recent years or whether we just did not recognize it then. On request, if accompanied with self-addressed, stamped envelope, the pamphlet, "Relief for Allergy," will be mailed any correspondent who is allergic.

Purely Personal Chatter About Atlanta Debutantes

Editor's Note: This is the twenty-second of a series of sketches giving intimate glimpses into the lives of Atlanta debutantes. Banning all social functions in their honor, this season's buds have voted to concentrate on war and defense work, their efforts along this line to be revealed in this series.

By SALLY FORTH.

• • • NOT FOR NAUGHT was blonde, blue-eyed Catherine Tift voted the "most versatile" senior by her classmates during her last year at Washington Seminary. This lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Tift is listed among the student-debutantes and is continuing her brilliant scholastic record as a junior at Sweet Briar College, in Sweet Briar, Va. She is a member of the college board of Mademoiselle, the younger set's favorite magazine, is a member of the junior reception committee and the French Club. Besides she has been named on the dean's list each of the three years she has been a Sweet Briar student.

Catherine is majoring in music appreciation, a study which she keenly enjoys, for she has a natural love of music and possesses a collection of fine records, a great number of which are symphonic recordings.

Next to listening to music, she lists sailing as the pastime from which she derives the most pleasure, and is the owner of a trim little sailboat which she christened "The Pig," her popular mother's nickname. Sailing, of course, is more or less "out" for the duration, but Catherine is still able to enjoy her triumphs in retrospect. You see, she has raced her own boat at Savannah and Sea Island, besides having acted as the "crew" for her brother, Tommie, when he raced his boat at New London, Conn., and at Charleston, S. C., last summer.

Other sports in which Catherine excels are swimming, badminton, tennis, volley ball and basketball, having won her letters in the latter four during high school days at Washington Seminary. During her sophomore year there she won the U. D. C. medal for her essay on Jefferson Davis, and her senior year was awarded the D. A. R. medal for her essay on the American Flag. When a member of the junior class she attended the meeting of the General Federation of Women's Clubs as delegate from the Georgia Federation junior division.

During her senior year Catherine served as maid of honor to the queen of the annual May Day celebration, and was a member of her senior round table. She also served as exchange editor and business manager of the Missesma, the Seminary's monthly publication. Also during her high school days, Catherine held the office of vice president of the Phi Pi sorority, was president of the Pirate Club and a member of the Gypsy Club and the Seminary Circle for Tallulah Falls School. Besides, she was one of the beautiful belles chosen to be presented at one of the Cotton Balls held in Chattanooga, Tenn., and was sponsor of the K. D. K. fraternity for two years. She was a member of the K. D. K.'s, being one of the only two belles ever to have had such an honor conferred upon them!

She is the prettiest, blue-eyed and golden-haired doll one ever could own, and was the prized possession of the late Lillian Beauregard Larendon, sister of the present owner.

The grandfather of the Larendon sisters is the late General Gustav Beauregard, of Confederate fame, who ordered the first shot fired at Fort Sumter, South Carolina. The doll was made in France by Jumeau, a famous maker of dolls, and she won a gold medal in Paris on the beauty of her workmanship. She is dressed in a white batiste frock trimmed with lace, and her white flannel petticoat is hand-embroidered in scallops on the bottom of the skirt. Little Lella Larendon Sisson loves and admires the china bisque doll so much, that Laure expects to will the doll to the small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Sisson.

• • • THE GREETINGS of the season came to Dr. and Mrs. Julian Riley last week from their lifelong friend, the celebrated Geraldine Farrar, in a card embossed in silver and red holly berries. The well-known prima donna, who lives in Ridgefield, Conn., composed a prayer, entitled "The Shelter Prayer," and had it engraved on her Christmas card. The supplication is as follows:

"Increase, O God, the spirit of neighborliness among us; That in peril we may uphold one another, In calamity serve one another, and in homelessness, Loneliness or exile, befriend one another. Grant us brave and enduring hearts That we may strengthen one another. Till the disciplines and testings of these days be ended, And Thou give peace again in our time, Thru Our Gracious Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ. Amen."

All in the Game

By JACK TROY

Going Back EN ROUTE TO PASADENA, Cal., with Georgia, Dec. 20.—Gentry Dugat, Cumberland '16, will be in the stands when Georgia Tech plays the University of Texas in the Dallas Cotton Bowl on New Year's Day.

Dugat, who wrote a tremendous biography of the life of Henry W. Grady, is holding his head up after 25 years. That is, in respect to football. It has taken him that long to recover from a Cumberland-Georgia Tech game in 1916. The score was Georgia Tech 222, Cumberland 0.

The score remains a record in football.

Dugat played left guard, and of the game he writes: "Dear Mr. Troy:

"Anent: Georgia Tech-Texas University Cotton Bowl game at Dallas, January 1, 1943.

"In the fall of 1916 I played left guard with Cumberland University against Georgia Tech in the world's most colossal score—222 to 0.

"For 25 years, I hung my head. It leaked out and the Dallas (Tex.) Times-Herald, afternoon, on December 6, 1942, used the enclosed story.

"Incidentally, I spent 10-12 months in Atlanta as a civil service employee of the Quartermaster Corps at the old Candler warehouse in west Atlanta prior to my resigning and going in the Army in World War I.

"Also, incidentally, I am the author of a little biography of your own lamented Henry W. Grady, southern orator and journalist—former managing editor of your Atlanta Constitution. See old book review sheet on the little book.

"Pardon for imposing.
"GENTRY DUGAT,
4021 Cole Ave.,
Dallas, Tex."

On Wrong Line Here is the Times-Herald "discovery" of Gentry Dugat: "There will be one spectator in the stands New Year's Day witnessing the Texas-Tech football game who bears historic bruises inflicted by the Georgia team. Twenty-six years ago Tech's pigskin steam roller made all-time gridiron history by piling up a never-beaten score of 222 to 0. That was in the autumn of 1916 and Gentry Dugat, of Dallas, was playing left guard on Grant Field that fateful day in Atlanta.

"But I was on the wrong line," Dugat confessed shyly. "I was a Texas Longhorn getting the rudiments of a law course at Cumberland University and this little school in the Tennessee mountains was the hapless victim of the Georgia cyclone's vast power. Tech, which has a way of being heard from in the sports columns, was in one of its periods of ascendancy."

"Dugat admitted that a lot of tales have been told about that game in Atlanta away back in 1916.

"Some of these are probably true; others a bit ridiculous," he added. "We of the Cumberland team were so beaten around it is doubtful if many of us knew really what was happening. I don't think, however, that our left halfback, after he had fumbled the ball and was told by the captain to get on it, replied—'Get it yourself, if you want it; I had it long enough,' as was reported."

Praised by Mr. Howell The old review sheet enclosed by Mr. Dugat was highly interesting. The late Clark Howell wrote—"Perhaps no living man knew Mr. Grady more intimately than I, for I really served my journalistic apprenticeship under him, finally becoming his assistant and upon his death succeeded him as managing editor.

"Your story of his life is the most complete yet written and it should find a place in every library in the country. . . . Your painstaking effort has re-

Cards' Upset of Yanks Biggest Sports Surprise

Barney Ross Named Winner Of Neil Trophy

Hero of Solomons Sole Nominee as Boxing's "Man of Year."

By SID FEDER.
NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—(P)—Corporal Barney Ross, the little round-faced Marine from Chicago who once held three world championships and has been doing a lot better-than-bad on Guadalcanal lately, today was named winner of the Edward L. Neil Memorial trophy as boxing's "Man of the Year."

The Boxing Writers' Association of New York, voting on the award given annually in memory of the Associated Press boxing writer and war correspondent who was killed in Spain in 1938, didn't even bother to consider another candidate. Corporal Barney's job on a bunch of Japs on night a few weeks back made him the sole nominee and unanimous choice.

As a matter of fact, as soon as word drifted back of how Barney, wounded and suffering from shock and fever, tangled with a detachment of Japs while protecting three wounded comrades on the night of November 19 and stood off the enemy until help arrived the next day, there wasn't any one else in the same league as a candidate for the award. Even the Japs—those who got away from Barney that night—probably would concur.

KAYOED SEVEN JAPS.

Ross "kayoed" at least seven of the enemy for keeps in that one-night stand in the Solomons. Because of his wounded pals, he had refused to be evacuated when his Marine unit was ordered to the rear after being isolated in dangerous underbrush, although it was almost certain death to remain exposed to a hidden machinegun nest. During the evening, he fired more than 450 rounds of ammunition, pitched a pack of hand grenades, and, as he related afterward, "prayed." The "scorekeepers" got him out the next day counted seven dead Jap snipers and said there were at least 10 other "probables."

For this heroism, Barney was promoted on the field to a corporal and his company, commanded by Captain O. K. Leblanc, recommended him for either the Navy Cross or the Army Distinguished Service Cross.

PRESENTATION IN JANUARY. The Neil plaque named Barney as the man who did the most for the fight game this year will be presented as usual, at the Boxing Writers' annual dinner either late in January or early in February. The writers hope the presentation can be made in person to Barney, who is expected back in the United States some time in January. If he won't be able to sit in on the proceedings, a ranking Marine officer will be invited to accept the trophy in his behalf. Among officials asked to attend as guests is Lieutenant General Thomas Holcomb, commander of the U. S. Marines.

Corporal Ross is the fourth man now wearing one of Uncle Sam's uniforms to win the award, but only the second to get it after entering military service. The only other to accept the trophy in uniform was Sergeant Joe Louis a year ago. Previous winners were Jack Dempsey, now a lieutenant commander in the Coast Guard; Billy Conn, now an Army corporal, and Henry Armstrong.

Except for the award, the boxing writers "froze" virtually all of their activities for the duration. They decided to discontinue making their annual ratings of fighters in all divisions.

PHILLY ACE INDUCTED. WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Dec. 20.—(P)—Tommy Hughes, of Ashley, Pa., star hurler of the Philadelphia National League Baseball Club, was inducted into the Army here yesterday. He will leave next Saturday.

League Averages Make Williams' Titles Official

Ted's .356 is 25 Points Ahead of Johnny Pesky; Bosox Ace Also Leads in Homers Again.

By DAVE HOFF.
CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—(P)—Ted Williams, the Boston Red Sox' youthful outfielder who has laid aside baseball "for the duration" in favor of the naval aviation program, received official credit in the American League record book today for winning the 1942 batting championship—his second straight year in that role.

Ted's .356 average for the season just closed was far off his winning pace of .406 in 1941, but the competition was less stiff, too, and Williams won by a handy margin of 25 points over his teammate, Johnny Pesky, who hit .331.

A year ago three batters exceeded Williams' winning 1942 average. Ted hit his 406, Cecil Travis of Washington .359 and Joe DiMaggio of New York .357.

MISSSES GREAT CHANCE. Since it's virtually a cinch Ted will not be back next summer to test opposing pitchers with his amazing knack of banging out base hits, he will miss a chance to become the first three-inning American League batting champion since the days of Ty Cobb.

In the 43-year history of the junior circuit only eight players have landed the batting title more than once. Nap Lajoie did it three times in the early 1900's, Cobb a terrific 12 times, including nine in a row from 1907 to 1915; George Sisler twice, in 1920 and 1922; Harry Heilmann four times, in 1921, 1923, 1925 and 1927; Al Simmons twice, in 1930 and 1931; Jimmie Foxx twice, in 1933 and 1938; Joe DiMaggio twice, in 1930 and 1940, and of course the current hero, Williams.

HOME RUN LEADER. For the official figures show he also was the repeating home run champion with 37, leader in total bases with 338, and top scorer, with 141 runs.

Pesky, playing his first full season in the majors, had a fairly substantial grip on the runner-up berth, eight points ahead of Stanley Spence, of Washington, who hit .323. Joe Gordon, of the New York Yankees, was next with .322, and George Case, of Washington, fifth with .320.

Joe DiMaggio finished in seventh place with a .305 mark, behind Walter Judnich, of the St. Louis Browns, who hit .313. Those seven players were the only ones participating in 100 or more games to top the .300 level, whereas a year ago 16 players were over that mark.

WRIGHT HIT .333. Taft Wright, of the Chicago White Sox, was able to play in only 85 games because of an early-season injury and his departure for the armed services before the campaign ended. Otherwise his .333 average would have placed him second to Williams.

Pesky, despite their futile efforts to overtake Williams, turned in notable performances in base hits with 205 and 203, respectively, to hold the lead in that department, and they were the only American Leaguers to reach the 200 mark.

Don Kolloway, of the Chicago White Sox, who hit a mere .273, rapped off 40 doubles for the lead in that specialty, nosing out Harold Clift, of St. Louis, who had 39. Spence compiled the biggest total of three-base hits, 15, which was too better than Joe DiMaggio or Jeff Heath, of Cleveland, could do. The home run race was no contest, with 27 by Chet Laabs, of St. Louis, providing him the runner-up spot to Williams' winning 36.

PESKY SACRIFICES. Pesky laid down 22 successful sacrifice hits and Lou Boudreau, the Cleveland manager, advanced runners with bunts 19 times.

And the stolen base leadership—for the fourth straight year—went to George Case, of Washington, who pilfered 44 last season. He had 33 in 1941, 35 in 1940 and 51 in 1939. Case was caught stealing only six times, the record in this department going to Boudreau, who was nailed in the act on 16 occasions.

Along with the general decline in individual batting, the team figures fell off considerably. The Red Sox took the title for the third year in a row, but their margin was only .276 as against their 283 in 1941. The league as a whole fell from the 1941 mark of .266 to .257.

The Washington Senators dropped from second to fourth in hitting, with the Yankees moving up to the runner-up spot and the St. Louis Browns surging into the No. 3 berth. The Yanks hit a .269 average, the Browns at .259 and the Senators at .258.

Willie Pep Fights Joe Silva Tonight

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—(P)—Christmas week will furnish a limited boxing program for the country with all the bouts of importance concentrated into two nights—Monday and Tuesday.

Willie Pep, of Hartford, Conn., who recently earned the New York version of the world's featherweight championship, will have top billing tomorrow night at Jacksonville, Fla., in an overweight 10-pounder against Joey Silva, of Los Angeles.

The next night Cleveland will have its annual charity boxing carnival and at Los Angeles former Lightweight Champion Lew Jenkins will go against John Thomas.

Crusaders' Win Over Eagles Is Second in Poll

Auburn's Decision Over Georgia 3d, Redskins' Defeat of Bears 4th.

By ORLO ROBERTSON.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—(P)—When the St. Louis Cardinals came back to wallopp the New York Yankees four straight after dropping the first game of the World Series they furnished the biggest surprise of the year in sports.

Thirty-nine of the 87 sports experts participating in the Associated Press' annual poll considered the Cards' World Series triumph, after overhauling the Brooklyn Dodgers, as their No. 1 surprise. Twenty-two others picked them for second and 13 for third with the result that they received a total of 174 votes on the basis of three for first, two for second and one for third.

Despite their large point total, the Cards were pressed for top honors by Holy Cross' 55-12 decision over Boston College, at the time the nation's No. 1 college football team, in the final game of the season. For this unexpected triumph, Holy Cross polled 163 points from 33 first, 26 seconds and 12 thirds.

All other surprises faded into insignificance in comparison with the upsets scored by the Cards and Holy Cross although Auburn's toppling of Georgia from the ranks of the undefeated football teams by a 27-13 margin drew 43 points while the Washington Redskins received 31 for their 14-6 decision over the Chicago Bears, who had won 24 straight before the national football league playoff game.

The unexpected showing of Illinois' football team, which whipped Minnesota and won its first conference game since 1939, was worth 17 points. Notre Dame's 28-0 whipping of the Iowa Seawawks was mentioned for 13 points, two more than were received by the St. Louis Browns for their rise to third place in the American League.

The voting:

Team	First Points	Second Points	Third Points
St. Louis Cardinals' victory in World Series	39	174

Inaugural Program At Tropical Park

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 20.—(P)—Speedy sprinters will give a flying start to Florida's winter racing season tomorrow in a brilliant Tropical Park inaugural program.

Cautious trainers—nervous to enter on early purses—flooded entry boxes with the names of some of the country's best six-furlong horses, and as a result the inaugural handicap had to be divided into two races.

In the first division will be such sprint stars as Joe Ray, Blue Pair, Dogpatch, and Augury—while handicappers looked for the second chapter to become a race to the finish among Bright Willie, Wolf Wolf, Bolus and Johnny J.

Fishermen Urged To Conserve Fish

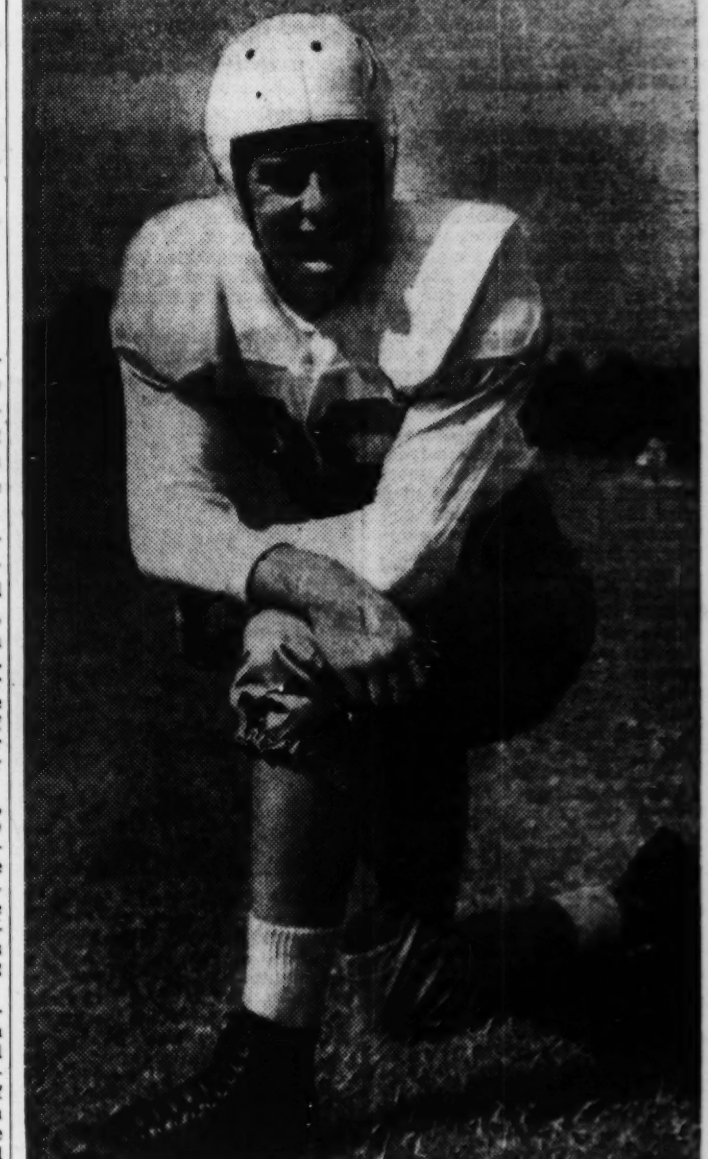

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—(P)—It's all right to go fishing, but please, the government begged today, see that somebody gets the catch.

The Fish and Wildlife Service, with a mention about "rationing" of meat and other essential foodstuffs being close at hand, issued the appeal today.

Too many sportsmen, it seems, are apt to take home a fair catch and let it spoil before they can eat it. Next season, they are urged to make arrangements with commercial fish dealers, charitable institutions or others to take off the anglers' hands any fish they can't readily eat themselves.

BOMBERS WIN TITLE.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 20.—(P)—The Second Air Force of Spokane, Wash., captured the west coast Army football title today with a 26-10 victory over a hard-fighting but outclassed March Field eleven from nearby Riverside. The northwest bombers closed the regular season with 10 victories, no defeats and a 6-6 tie with Washington State. They now go to El Paso, Tex., to play Hardin-Simmons in the Sun Bowl New Year's Day.

News of Major Scott's Death Is Big Shock to Sports Fans

By MELVIN PAZOL.
News of the death of Major Trammell Scott, until recently president of the Southern Association, came as a definite shock to Atlanta and southern sports fans yesterday afternoon, and a flood of telephone inquiries kept the sports department busy furnishing details. Scott had been on a hunting trip at Bob Woodruff's Ichauway Plantation, and his body was found about noon Sunday near Newton, Ga.

Major Scott, who had the uncanny knack of becoming president of almost every organization with which he affiliated himself, had a host of friends among local baseball and basketball players, as well as dog lovers, field trial followers and horse show people. A baseball player himself in his time, Scott had played first base in the South Atlantic and Texas leagues, and had played semi-pro ball for Dalton and several other teams. While proprietor of a sporting goods store, he had been president of several amateur baseball leagues, later of the Atlanta Amateur Baseball Federation and the Southern Amateur Association and this served as a stepping stone into his position as president of the Southern Association. A man not given to making harsh decisions unless he was forced to, Scott held the esteem of all amateur players and managers in the city. He had been president of the Georgia Wildlife Association and of the Southern Field Trial Club, of Albany.

Rache Bell, who formerly managed winning amateur teams, called to say that Scott was one of the best friends he had ever had. Bell had worked with Scott, managing numerous kids who made good in professional baseball.

Coach Alexander, of Tech, was "much concerned" over the news. Alex said Scott was a very fine man and expressed sympathy. Raymond Johnson, sports editor of the Nashville Tennessean, happened to be writing a column about Scott when he was handed the Associated Press bulletin of the major's death.

Dr. George Myhrhall, a dog fancier and long-standing friend of the Major, said he could hardly believe it when the Newton sheriff phoned him.

Joe Engel, president of the Chattanooga baseball club; Frank Anderson, Oglethorpe baseball coach; Paul Sanford, secretary of the Atlanta baseball club; Tommy Reed, Jr., C. W. Outlaw, Johnny Moon, Charlie Elliott and a host of others called to express sympathy and ask about funeral details.

Whitley, Trawick Johnson, P. W. Crawford, and D. S. Kerr, 124; P. G. Lombard, W. L. Render, J. W. Roach, and H. E. Graham, 125; and W. P. Darby, H. D. Kline, W. T. Etzel, and V. J. Nichols, 125.

Frank Leaky Leaves Mayo Clinic for Home

ROCHESTER, Minn., Dec. 20.—(P)—Frank Leaky, football coach at Notre Dame, left here today, with Mayo Clinic physicians describing him as very much improved from a spinal arthritis condition.

Leaky said he plans a vacation in Florida shortly after the holidays.

Eagles Take First Workout at Miami

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 20.—(P)—Thirty-five brave Boston College squad members got a taste today of what it'll be like to play in a June-January football game.

Head Coach Denny Myers sent the team through a lengthy drill to loosen the kinks acquired in a two-day train trip from Boston, where snow covered the practice field, to Miami, where residents promote the Orange Bowl game on New Year's Day to advertise the balmy winter climate.

Boston's southern opponent, Alabama, will arrive next Sunday. Beginning tomorrow, Myers plans practices on a two-day schedule.

"We're way behind Alabama in our preparation," the coach declared.

"We got in very little work at home before we left. Why, they had to shovel snow off the field so we could run signals."

He expects no particular difficulty from the change in climate. "We'll have 11 days in which to get ready, and I think we can become acclimated by then."

Burglar With Yen for Variety Ransacks Decatur Drug Store

A burglar with a yen for variety apparently "went wild" when he broke into a drug store in Decatur Saturday night. Decatur city Policeman Luther Spinks reported that someone broke into Redding's Pharmacy at 1102 West College avenue. Among the loot missing were two typewriters, 15 fountain pens, two two-pound boxes of candy, several war savings stamps, a quantity of narcotics including codeine, cocaine, opium and morphine; $20 in cash and nearly $300 in cigars and cigarettes.

The owner, Dr. J. F. Redding, said the tobacco represented his Christmas stock which had been received Saturday. The total value of the loot was over $500.

State Lawyers Barber Here Well Ahead in Hurt, Wedged War Bond Sale Between Cars

$3,560,606 Purchases Put Bar Group Over Half-Way Mark.

Members of the Georgia Bar Association, who accepted the responsibility of putting Georgia over the top on its $6,000,000 December war bond quota, are well on their way toward a great "home front" victory, it was disclosed yesterday.

Georgians purchased $3,560,606 worth of Series E war bonds during the first 15 days of December, putting the lawyers well ahead of their half-way mark quota, said E. Smythe Gambrell, of Atlanta, chairman of the Georgia Bar Association's war bond campaign.

Quotas Exceeded. A large number of county chairmen have already exceeded their quotas, and many communities are planning special bond selling celebrations for the last week in the month.

These include "jeep rides"—where a civilian is permitted to ride in a jeep under turchasing a war bond; countywide mass meetings at which flags, made by women of the community and carrying stars for local boys in the armed service, are presented to county officials; outdoor Christmas trees; patriotic rallies; band concerts and other programs.

County chairmen throughout the state have advised Gambrell many Christmas gifts and that thousands of dollars in savings accounts in banks which are planning to reduce interest rates after January 1, had been withdrawn and diverted to war bond purchases.

Series E Only. Georgia's $6,000,000 war bond quota for December is based entirely on the sale of Series E bonds, county executive chairmen and Georgia Bar Association war bond chairmen were again reminded by C. Arthur Cheatham, senior deputy administrator of the Georgia war savings staff.

"During previous months," Cheatham said, "the state's quota was based on the sale of three types of bonds, Series E and Series F and G. On December 1 the Treasury Department placed the sale of F and G bonds in the hands of the recently created victory committee, leaving the war savings staff with the responsibility of promoting the sale of Series E bonds."

Cheatham pointed out the war savings staff and the victory committee are two distinct organizations, and that while both were created for the single purpose of promoting the sale of war bonds, the responsibility of raising the state's war quota rests with the war savings staff.

Wealthy Kentucky Man's Body Found in Florida

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 20.—(P)—Coast Guardsmen today found the bodies of Benjamin G. Brinkman, of Louisville, Ky., and a companion who had been missing since they set out on a fishing trip a week ago.

Brinkman's body first was discovered by aerial searches, and Coast Guardsmen patrolling the area by boat later came upon the remains of George G. Sedano, 49, professional dancer.

Brinkman was a wealthy amusement park and skating rink operator.

Rick Tells of Experience At Sea; Asks Greater Effort

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—(P)—Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, back home after his harrowing experiences in the south Pacific and in the "hellhole" of Guadalcanal, told his story personally to the American people today over nation-wide radio hookups.

The story of the three weeks he and seven others floated on a raft in the ocean after their airplane ran out of gasoline, and of the things he saw in the American-Japanese theater of war—was much the same as he told newspapermen in Washington and later in New York yesterday.

"Sitting here in the comfort of my own home on a Sunday afternoon just five days before Christmas, I find it rather difficult to visualize that entirely different world some thousands of miles away in the Pacific from which I have just returned, the flying ace of the first World War said today.

Reviews Experiences. "Few Americans who have not been there can comprehend that world in which our armed forces are making the gallant fight for us, for such Sunday afternoons and Christmas."

Rickenbacker then reviewed the latest of his many thrilling experiences—this time a war mission for Secretary Stimson.

Calmly he told of his giant ship getting off its course, of the frantic last hour SOS appeal made by radio, and of the landing on the ocean.

Barber Here Well Ahead in Hurt, Wedged War Bond Sale Between Cars

$3,560,606 Purchases Put Bar Group Over Half-Way Mark.

Crushed between two automobiles, Lee Blackstock, 69, a barber, of 702 Edgewood avenue, N. E., was critically injured yesterday.

Radio Patrolmen C. M. Cloud and Bob Holland reported Blackstock was crossing Edgewood avenue when a car driven by Miss Mary Upchurch, of 1058 Wylie street, S. E., and another driven by Sergeant A. L. Dunning, of 416 Mathewson place, S. W., approached, both moving in the same direction.

Dunning told police he saw Blackstock, swerved to avoid striking him and collided with the other vehicle, squeezing Blackstock between the two cars. Blackstock suffered head and internal injuries. He was admitted to Grady hospital.

No cases were made against the drivers of the cars.

Wealthy Man's Body Is Found Afloat in Lake

Byron Chandler, Millionaire Spendthrift, Termed Suicide.

PALM BEACH, Fla., Dec. 20.—(P)—Police Lieutenant L. O. Eckhardt said today that the body of Byron D. Chandler, millionaire spendthrift well known on Broadway early in the century was found floating today in Lake Worth with a bullet wound in the chest.

Justice of the Peace T. M. Rickards said that Chandler had shot himself, and that no inquest would be necessary.

Police found letters addressed to Chandler's attorney, J. W. Salisbury, and to his fourth wife, Betty West Chandler, who divorced him last February.

Chandler, member of a New Hampshire banking family, was known as the "million dollar kid" when he entered the Broadway scene at the age of 23. He had inherited a million dollars from his grandfather and another million from his father.

His spending tactics were fabulous. Eckhardt said he apparently had shot himself on a dock at his estate, and the body fell into the water.

2,300 Men in Army War Show Now Rarin' to 'Play for Keeps'

By SGT. GEORGE FULLER.

"Who said 'Parting is such sweet sorrow,'" growled a burly tank driver with the Army War Show. "That guy was crazy—there's nothing sweet about saying so long to the pals we've made with this show."

"There's a fellow in the tank destroyer outfit that's been firing a 75 mm. gun at me for seven months and stealing my girl friends in 18 cities, yet it's losing a right arm leaving that fellow behind."

Those were the sentiments of the 2,300 fighting officers and men with the Army War Show Tank Force as they packed their gear and prepared to move off in all directions—following the final performance in Ponce de Leon Park last night.

Slightly more than 16,000 persons attended the final performance. This crowd brought the total paid admissions for the five-day run in Atlanta to almost 55,000, an average of 11,000 a day.

The 4,000,000th paid admission to the Army show was sold to Miss Mary Jane Wilson, of 290 Sutherland terrace, N. E. Miss Wilson attended the show with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Wilson, who went in just ahead of her.

The ticket was sold by Colonel Bais.

Many men were still uncertain of their destinations. Strict military secrecy clouded their movements. A sharp contrast to the brilliant publicity spotlight they had basked on for seven months. Many will form the nucleus of new divisions. Still others will join active units, and some will soon be on foreign soil.

It was like graduation day for these seasoned soldiers. A graduation day with all the paths that comes with breaking close-knit bonds of friendship.

Colonel Wilson Tarleton Bais, West Coast publicity officer of the Tank Force, relaxed for a moment when asked his reaction to the tour.

"It has been a tour of triumph from start to finish," he said, "and credit goes to these officers and men."

"They have realized the serious business of war and for seven months have lived, worked and trained like Trojans. Publicity has kept every move of theirs made in front of the public's eye, and they have never disgraced their Army or country. There isn't a swelled head in the force."

"After months of this intense training they have become one of the crack forces in the country. They know what's ahead and I am proud to say that be it Tokyo or Berlin, they'll give a good accounting of themselves."

Lauds Hospitality. "Certainly, one of the most warming high lights of the tour has been the hospitality citizens and soldiers alike have extended officers and men," continued the colonel. "These men are from practically every state in the Union. Many haven't been home since they entered the Army. Take it from me, they have appreciated the home-cooked dinners, the cakes and cookies and hot coffee given them on bitter cold days and especially the many invitations to use private hot showers."

"Atlanta hospitality has been all we had anticipated, and more. The generosity of the south is something your Yankee fighters will long remember."

Corporal L. N. Rahn, of Reading, Pa., paused for a moment while packing his .30-caliber machinegun.

"Yes, I'm sorry to see the show break up. We've all made some great friends in this outfit, but there's a bigger show coming up, and after all, that's what we're here for. But I would like to thank the folks with my pals in the other outfits."

Two tough "jeep" drivers took an optimistic stand on the break-up.

"Don't worry, we'll get together some day," he said. "We'll all be in the thick of it before long and when somebody hollers across no-man's land, 'feel the heat,' it won't take me long to know the Army War Show flame throwers are on the job."

Likes Officers. Buck Private S. E. Land, a mortar man from the first battalion, from Birmingham, Ala., was vehement with his approval of the show's officers.

"The finest officers I have ever served under are right here in the Army War Show," he commented. "They had to be good to keep almost 3,000 men in line for seven months."

"We've had some tough going. There were times when we were literally sleeping in the mud for days—like Milwaukee, when we had four inches of rain in four days, and the trip from Omaha to Chicago when we darn near wore the seats of our pants out riding and sleeping on day coaches."

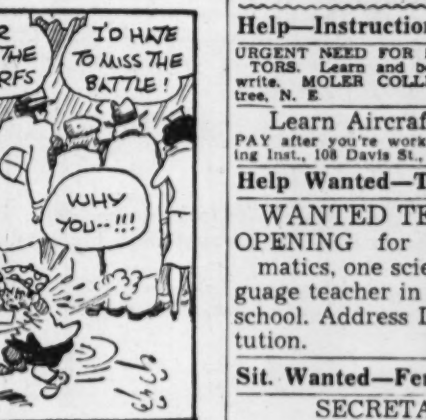

"Yes, and remember, setting up those 400 tents while it was sleeting in St. Louis," chimed in a top sergeant.

"Yep, we've got some crack officers in the War Show."

"We'd go through hell and high water for any of 'em," piped up

Deputy Warden Of State Camp Arrested Here

Officer Found in Highway Truck; Booked On 'Drunk' Charge.

A deputy warden from a south Georgia prison camp was found by Atlanta police in a state highway truck "too drunk to stand up" with two prisoners he was supposed to be transporting back to the camp waiting patiently for him to "come around," police reports disclosed yesterday.

The truck was found parked on Harris street, Radio Patrolmen O. T. Jones and W. W. Ford reported. The deputy warden was booked in city jail on a charge of "drunk." He was listed as K. T. Jolley, 33, of Cartersville, a deputy warden of the state highway prison camp at McRae in Telfair county.

Convicts Laughing.
"The truck was parked and we found Jolley too drunk to stand up," Ford said. "The two convicts were handcuffed, and their feet were bound. They were sitting there laughing at Jolley."

The two prisoners were listed as Joe Blake and Robert Coker, escapes from Telfair county. Warden L. B. Herring, of the Telfair county camp, said Jolley had been accompanied to Atlanta Saturday by Bob Horton, another deputy warden. No trace could be found of Horton.

Herring said Jolley had been with the state highway department since May. He had served at camps in Cartersville, Folkston and McRae.

Wanted in Atlanta.
Coker had been serving 15 to 18 years for robbery and larceny of an automobile, Herring said. Blake was serving a 3 1/2 year sentence for robbery and misdemeanor. Both escaped recently.

Blake also is wanted by Atlanta police in connection with the holdup of two liquor stores here Thursday night. He was one of five men captured by Lieutenant J. C. Ashe and other Atlanta officers in a chase through downtown Atlanta early Friday morning. Coker was arrested earlier in the week.

The two prisoners had been transferred from the city jail to the Fulton county jail Saturday in preparation for their transfer to the state camp.

Coker, Blake and Jolley are being held in the city jail.

J. B. Hatchett, secretary of the state Prison and Parole Commission, said last night he had given orders to hold Blake and Coker. He said they would not be sent back to Telfair but would be transferred to the state prison at Reidsville instead.

Rommel Force Loses Heavily In Tanks, Guns

Hard-Pressed Remnants Continue Headlong Flight to Tripoli.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—(P)—Leaving behind 20 destroyed tanks, 30 guns and 500 prisoners on the Libyan battleground where they were hemmed in by a British flanking movement five days ago, the hard-pressed remnants of General Rommel's African army continued their headlong flight toward Tripoli today under heavy punishment from Allied planes.

As far west as Buerat el Hsun, more than 200 miles from El Agheila, Allied fighting planes were reported raking the columns of the retreating Axis troops and meeting only half-hearted resistance from enemy planes.

Further east British ground troops and armored machines which exacted such a heavy toll from the German panzer division which was cut off at Matruh last Tuesday continued their relentless hammering of Rommel's rear guard. It was revealed today that the flanked German division escaped complete destruction after a three-day battle only by breaking up into small units and racing through gaps in the lines of the New Zealand division which had swept around to block its path.

Action in Tunisia, where both sides were bogged in inches of yellow mud, appeared limited almost entirely to the air. Both the Allies and the Axis were forced to hold their ground activity to cautious sparring of patrols pending a break in the weather.

Pichon Reoccupied By French Troops.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Dec. 20.—(P)—French troops have reoccupied the town of Pichon, 60 miles west of Soussou and 62 miles south of Medjel Bab in Tunisia, a headquarters spokesman said.

The capture was made with the aid of U. S. fighter planes which destroyed at least 10 enemy vehicles on the roads of the area.

U. S. A-20 attack bombers escorted by Lightning fighters heavily attacked Sfax yesterday, scoring many hits on the railroad yards and the roundhouse.

Lieutenant General Dwight D. Eisenhower announced tonight that part of the French merchant shipping in North and West African ports would be used directly "in the Allied cause" and the remainder employed in supplying French Africa's economic needs.

Six Spies Executed In French Africa.

ALGIERS, Algeria, Dec. 20.—(P)—Six spies charged with serving the Axis were shot by firing squads at Constantine yesterday in a continuation of the drive to rid French Africa of espionage activities, it was disclosed today.
